Prof. Husby has returned to his home in Brainerd, but has not been restored to his health by the journey on the continent.

One of the promised sessions of the Paris exhibition will be given by the man who will make the most successful museum on a horse.

There will be four farmers in the next Missouri State Senate and a merchant, while the lawyers number twenty.

There are four hundred different cities in the United States named Augusta, and there is never a day that freight and mail matter is not going wrong.

The losses of the French people on the Lesseps canal may make them feel somewhat as they did when Hannibal found the price of their escape from German hands.

The largest sum ever collected at a charity dinner was $250,000 offered at the centenary festival of the Royal Masonic Institute for the blind, recently held at the Albert Hall.

According to the gossip of the bar the Parnell commission cases probably bring three guineas a minute. This calculation includes the expenses of the parties concerned, the state included.

Graining seems to be going out of style. Very few high priced sowers are in this line of business, and now employed in the various shops, and is now very popular to fill in an unemployed time at plain job.

Misses Brown and Edna, Gabel artists in Los Angeles, Cal., who are spending the last year of their marriage in the Antelope Valley have opened a studio in the city.

In thirty years Count Tolstoy's private property in land will be a thing of the past. England, America and Russia will be the only countries that have not been reduced to the problem if Count Tolstoy really said this he ought to make a prediction to continue some time before he passes away in his travels.

Laborer is said to possess a water fall that makes Niagara Falls insignificant in comparison. R. F. Hahn, laborer, locates this fall on the river, which is 1,500 feet wide, and the height of the water is estimated to be nearly 2,000 feet.

Four brothers married to four sisters by the same minister in the recent 21st anniversary of the wedding were married to Louisa Wiggins. The parties are all German Lutherans, and the bride and groom are both neighbors for thirty years on farms about ten miles from the city.

Two young men operating under the names of Hughes & Taylor have swindled and defrauded a number of northern citizens of New York State out of $150,000 and left for parts unknown. They represented themselves as commission merchants, and thus succeeded in having consignments of goods and produce forwarded to Chicago. They pocketed the proceeds and departed.

At a family dinner given last night by Valentine Vetter, a venerable old man of Dayton, Ohio, the plates were found developed containing beads, stocks, bonds, etc., aggregating nearly $200,000, which he had given to his children and grand-children. An unknown man in divided $400,000 between them in 1874, and it is an uncommon thing for his children to hold $1,000 checks under their belts.

The editor of a territorial weekly received a number of letters from subscribers urging him to publish his paper weekly. He did so, but the circulation was not increased, and only once in every two weeks they looked in their dictionaries and checked the territory, was what they wanted. It is an interesting fact that "his-weekly" means once in two weeks, "his-weekly" means three times a week.

An employe of J. G. Gould recently remarked: "George Gould and I fight each other no more than my father and son ever now, and the same is the case with the other boys, and consequently any boys grand to go home to their parents. Grand is imparted to his sons just as much to take care of themselves. One of his boys is a good telegraph operator, the other man can go all over this country and on that continent, and the old boy and the other one can send them by wire."

One September evening in Mittaineau village two men were on the Springfield, Mass., of the Congregational Church for regular prayer meeting, recently ordained, has been appointed to lead the services, but that the congregation was so small he failed to appear. Finally someone at his non-appearance sent a message to be sent to the pastor, and the messenger returned with the answer that the dominie was ill and could not attend on that occasion, it was finally ascertained that the clergyman had attended faithfully for the meeting that evening, but that he had committed the time-honored error of attempting to get a straight cut, which quickly proved to be a mistake of domestic policy, and while his flock sang "Sweet By and By" he was engaged in the study of a gaily ringed map of Poland.

TWO CHRISTMAS EVENS

At the corner of the market square in the ancient town of... there stands a picturesque old house...

There was a stranger, and who wore a patch over his eye, which had been struck by a bullet...

"Where," said he, "having a newspaper in his hand, where he stood the winking post, the cage and the stocks..."

"That," interrupted Captain Trent, "is the man who was the first to see the light of day..."

"Well but," returned the barber, "there was one person who watched the growing action of the leaves with a white and cold eye..."

"I'll hear no more on it," cried the man with the white eye, "I've had enough of this..."

"Why, know you not," replied the barber, "that the man who was the first to see the light of day..."

"I know not more than that," said the barber, "I have only eyes to back him, and I have only eyes to back him..."

"It was Christmas Eve, and the good people of St. Ives were preparing to keep the festival with a grand dinner..."

"The crowd at once broke away and the streets were filled with the noise of the revelry..."

"The night of the year was much darker than the night of the year was much darker than the night of the year..."

There had been a Spanish vessel in an action with a British ship in the bay of St. Ives...

"I was not ten days from our arrival at the conclusion, when I took Mr. Trent with me for a short expedition into the forest..."

A NIGHT SNAKE.

Looking our camp on a suitable spot on the south shore of the Amazon, as nearly as it ever can be ascertained...

"I was not ten days from our arrival at the conclusion, when I took Mr. Trent with me for a short expedition into the forest..."
