HOW A PUZZLE WAS SOLVED.

When you want a certain article, you want the best make of that article, don't you?

But how to determine which make is best is what puzzles you, isn't it?

And when the puzzle is solved for you, by authority which cannot be questioned, you are pleased, aren't you?

And you would like to hear of one puzzle that has been solved for the people of the whole world, wouldn't you?

Well, we will tell you about that very puzzle, and its solution.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889 at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France.

This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered, the GRAND PRIZE, giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French Government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor, the most prized honor of France.

That is how the puzzle of the best sewing machine in the world was fully solved by the most competent authority in the world in favor of the No. 9 and No. 12 Wheeler & Wilson machines.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best, it will be your own fault.

Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine, and if he does not keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue, prices and terms.

Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory.

THE BEST APERIENT

In modern pharmacy is, undoubtedly, Ayer's Cathartic Pills. Except in extreme cases, physicians have abandoned the use of drastic purgatives, and recommend a milder, but no less effective medicine. The favorite is Ayer's Pills, the superior medicinal virtues of which have been certified to under the official seals of state chemists, as well as by hosts of eminent doctors and pharmacists. No other pill so well supplies the demand of the general public for a safe, certain, and agreeable family medicine.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever used; and in my judgment no better general remedy was

Ever Devised

I have used them in my family and caused them to be used among my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge many cases of the following complaints have been completely and permanently cured by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard colds. I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."—J. O. Wilson, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—Wm. H. DeLaucett, Dorset, Ontario.

"Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic I ever used in my practice."—J. T. Sparks, M. D., Yeddo, Ind.

Regan, executrix of the estate of William Whitney Regan, deceased, representing, among other things, that she has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the final account of her administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law:

And it is Further Ordered, That notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order once in each week, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Brainerd Dispatch, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Brainerd in said county.

[SEAL.] By the Court, MILTON McFADDEN, Judge of Probate.

A Lumberman's Rendezvous.

This term might be applied to Stevens Point, located on the Wisconsin Central Lines, at the gate-way to the vast forest region which extends North to Lake Superior, a distance of 200 miles without a break, on account of its vast lumber interests. The Wisconsin River to which the lumbermen have given the familiar and somewhat affectionate title of "Old Wiscons," not alone acts as a lumber feeder to the city by furnishing through its numerous tributaries an outlet for thousands of acres of pine in the upper country, but it furnishes a water power that is second only to that of Neenah and Menasha, which cities are also located on the "Central." Millions of feet of lumber are cut every year, giving employment to hundreds of men. In addition to the lumber trade, it has numerous other manufactories; it is here where the large car shops of the Wisconsin Central Lines are located.

For tickets, maps, pamphlets and full information apply to G. F. McNeill, C. P. & T. A., Minneapolis, Minn., or to Jas. C. Pond, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago Illinois.

Brainerd's Opportunity.

In the proposition of the Northern Mill Co. to locate here and build a line of road to connect with their road now in operation above Gull Lake, and to establish the repair shops of this road in Brainerd, all for a bonus of $100,000, is Brainerd's great opportunity to take a great stride forward towards the place among Minnesota cities that her great natural advantages entitle her to. THE DISPATCH is earnestly in favor of accepting this offer because we believe it will have the effect above described. Brainerd is at the very gateway of the great pine forests of Minnesota, with ample power and booming facilities to easily handle and manufacture a large proportion of the product of these forests into lumber and wares of commerce, and it seems passing strange that she has not enjoyed a large proportion of this industry for many years. To manufacture a large portion of the vast quantities of timber that yearly pass by this city should be Brainerd's great ambition, and we favor this proposition because we believe this is a large beginning, if for no other reason, although there are many others. We firmly believe that this is only a beginning, and in a short time other wood manufacturing industries will be established here. Why should not this pine be manufactured here instead of being floated 100 milles down the river? Mill men all concede that our booming priviliges are unsurpassed, and at present Brainerd enjoys a freight rate on lumber to the markets of the south and west as low as any in the country. Taking these things into consideration it goes without saying that Brainerd will in a short time be a great lumber manufacturing town. There is also vast quantities of wood suitable for manufacturing into pulp tributary to this city, and negotiations are now in progress for securing for Brainerd the largest pulp mill in the state. One industry brings another, and as Brainerd is eminently fitted by nature for these industries to locate in, we favor this proposition to secure one as a beginning, if, as we stated before, for no other reason.

But there are many other reasons among which we might enumerate the following:

The acceptance of this proposition will restore confidence in our city's future and increase the value of all real property in county 50 per cent.

It will reduce taxation by increasing the assessed valuation.

It will reduce taxation by preventing the organization of Cass county, and consequently the loss of the revenue derived therefrom.

It will increase our population and make a better market for the produce of the Crow Wing county farmers.

It will bring in new settlers to supply the increased market and thus help to settle up the county.

These are a few of the many benefits that Brainerd and Crow Wing county will secure almost immediately from the acceptance of this proposition. As to the benefits that will probably result at no distant day from the building of this railroad we will express no opinion of our own, but offer the following prediction taken from the Minneapolis Journal and Spectator. The Journal says:

The air is full of railroad projects now, but there is none that seems to premise so well for Minneapolis as the Brainerd & Northern Minnesota project outlined in the Journal a day or two since. But the whole of the story was not told then. The project is larger than then appeared, and if the heavy men back of it succeed in carrying out their ideas not only the lumber but the iron ore of the vast undeveloped regions to the north will be brought direct to Minneapolis. The plan as originally outlined provided for the building of a line northwestward from Brainerd, skirting Leech Lake, Red Lake and tapping the upper Red river country. But it now transpires that this is only part of the plan. It is proposed to build a spur in a northeasterly direction, leaving the main line at some point not far north of Brainerd that shall tap the Mesaba range. This would probably take in, via Grand Rapids or some point on the Great Bend of the upper Mississippi, the whole newly discovered iron country northward to the Rainy Lake region and the international boundary. It will at once be seen that this is a vast project which means much for Minneapolis. It will make the manufacture of iron here not only possible and profitable, but almost inevitable. The whole range is filling up with mining camps, and the business of furnishing them supplies is becoming a great one. This will all naturally come to the jobbing houses of Minneapolis, for the city where the lumber and ore is marketed must become the base of supplies. The country which the new road proposes to open is now totally without railroad facilities. Its sources, while known to be great, are as yet only dimly realized, and it doesn't take a very active imagination to picture the great volume of trade and raw material which will flow into Minneapolis in the near future over this road. Brainerd, too, will be a large beneficiary, as the junction point of the two branches of the system and as the fitting out place. Already it is beginning to feel the effects of the deal. The Northern Mill Company has decided to remove its saw mill from Gull River to Brainerd, to which place the new road will bring the logs cut on the Pillsbury tracts.

The Spectator, also of Minneapolis, says:

Elsewhere in this issue of the Spectator are printed the articles of incorporation of the Brainerd and Northern Minnesota Railway Company. The parties interested are well known Minneapolis men as follows: Hon. J. S. Pillsbury, Hon. Geo. A. Pillsbury, Arthur E. Bardwell, Wm. B. Ransom, Jas. E. Glass, Ray W. Jones, and Jas. A. Kellogg. The capital stock is $500,000, and the road is not merely "on paper" but is a bona fide enterprise. Already about 25 miles of track have been built, and 10 or 15 more will be added within 60 days. The road will run northwest from Brainerd, to the state line, and will pass near Leech Lake, Red Lake and other important points. It will traverse a rich timber, mineral and agricultural region, and form an important outlet for a wealth of products. The region which it will open is largely untouched, and forms a vast empire as yet but little known, but endowed with wonderful resources and possibilities.

HON. G. G. HARTLEY says in reference to the 6th district congressional campaign: "The situation in the 6th district has narrowed down to two men on the republican side—Mr. Kendall of Duluth, and Judge Searle of St. Cloud. Mr. Kendall is a good candidate and will doubtless secure the solid backing of St. Louis county in the convention." And thus, from day to day, does the Kendall contingent continue to grow.

THE Duluth Tribune of Saturday contains a half column roast of Kittel Halverson, because of his vote against the river and harbor bill. In concluding its article the Tribune says: "And the Alliance people are talking of renominating him! Ye gods and little fishes! What are the people of this district guilty of that they should have such a small sized alleged statesman as Kittel Halverson continuously thrust before them. Halverson will have to travel.

Right You Are.

The Northern Mill company is to build a logging railroad in a northwesterly direction leaving the Northern Pacific roadway at Brainerd. Some day some trunk line railway seeking for a line from Brainerd to the grain fields of Dakota and Manitoba will come along and want the road that the gentlemen comprising the saw mill firm are now proposing to build.—Lumberman.

HENRY VILLARD is engaged in writing a history of the rise of the present German Empire.

GENERAL G. W. JONES, the first United States Senator Iowa ever sent to Washington, is living in Dubuque. He is 88 years old.

MRS. HATTIE DAY, of East Bucksport, Me., has sold $30 worth of braids made from her own hair, and yet she has abundant black tresses, three feet in length.

THE race of Machiavellis is extinct in Italy, else we should not see that country bankrupt for the pleasure of maintaining a costly friendship with Austria and Germany.

FRANCOI ROSSOTT who died of old age in Fort Wayne, Ind, a few days ago, was one of Napoleon's soldiers. Had he lived a few months longer he would have been a hundred years old.

A BATTERED old hack that transports passengers from the depot to the hotels in Jackson, Mass., with a colored Jehu at the reins, was once the family carriage of Commodore Vanderbilt.

CHARLES GAYARRE, the Louisiana historian, a fine writer and accomplished scholar, is over eighty years of age, and in destitute circumstances. There is a movement on foot in New Orleans for his relief.

IT is rumored that Bismarck and the kaiser are to become reconciled. This might have happened long ago had it not been contrary to German etiquette for Bismarck to spank his august master.

BJORNSON, the Norwegian poet and politician has renounced a pension which he received from his goverment. He declined to accept the gift any longer unless Kjelland, a brother poet, became the object of a like honor.

FRANCIS C. SESSION, who died in Columbus, Ohio, a few weeks ago, has left his estate, valued at more than $1,000,000, to his wife for her life. Half a million is then to be used to estalish an academy of art in columbus.

ROBERT FORD, the slayer of Jesse James, has been firmly but kindly apprised by the populace of the new mining camp of Creede, Colo., that he is persona non grata. Kobert shrewdly construed this to mean that they would lynch him anon and departed. The days of the truly bad man in the far West are mostly days that were.

REV. HOWARD MACQUEARY is again in trouble with his religious associates. On leaving the Episcopalians he took charge of a Universalist church at Saginaw, Mich., and now the Universalist papers are hauling him over the coals for being too heterodox for usefulness in the pulpit of that denomination.

AT Mount Holly, Pa., a young man died of scarlet fever and his body was placed on view for the melancholy pleasure of numerous friends of the deceased. The numerous friends aforesaid have mostly got the same disease themselves, and the country for miles around has an object lesson in sanitary science that it will not forget very soon.

JAY GOULD is reported as ill again. If he is to give $100,000 to his favorite form of othodoxy every time he gets somewhat "off his feed" we anticipate, in view of his advancing years that Presbyterian churches will be too numerous to talk about before long. But Jay was only making a bluff at the devil, likely enough, when he gladdened the hearts of the elders the first time.

NEW YORK papers are a deal annoyed by the remarks of Rudyard Kipling about that queer town. For a long time the people of the United States have not cared much about what was done in New York, being much disgusted with what failed of getting done. The sensitiveness of New York is so far beneath the rhinoceros hide of the place that all its squirming never results in amendment of its evil ways.

Returns from the scene of the recent disturbances in China are coming in slowly. One of the prime disturbers of the peace and dignity of the country has been gradually sliced to death with a dull knife by order of the imperial authorities, and a few other prominent citizens of the region are to be skinned alive and then dressed with hot aqua fortis and table salt, as a reminder that the government disapproves their course.

THERE is now considerable doubt, owing to important political questions at home, whether the King of Greece will attend the celebration of the golden wedding of the King and Queen of Denmark next month. The Crown Prince of Greece will represent his father in case of his absence. Queen Olga intends to visit the Empress of Russia before going to Copenhagen. The Crown Princess Sophia will spend a part of the coming summer at a German bathing place for the benefit of her health.

THE residents of Paris ought to be able to moderate their fear a little, in view of the results of an analysis of some of the Anarchist bombs over which they have been trembling so. The Municipal Laboratory has just made an examination of two hundred of these, and only six of them were found to be genuine and dangerous. The practical joker would seem to have been playing high jinks with his fellows in that capital. Add to this the facts that Munoz, the Madrid anarchist, turns out to have been only a police spy and that several of the "outrages" in Spain prove to have been the work of the police, who profited by them, and the real character of the Anarchist scare becomes evident.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—A case involving the title to a tract of land in the city of Tacoma, Wash., valued at $750,000, was disposed of by a decision announced by Justice Brewer in the supreme court of the United States to-day. Maria J. Galliher claimed title under a homestead entry made by Silas Galliher, her husband, Aug. 10, 1872. He died April 18, 1873, and his entry was canceled Dec. 4, 1879, for want of final proof within the statutory seven years. Under an act passed June 15, 1880, Mrs. Galliher applied for the land, but her application was rejected. N. P. Caldwell entered the land Dec. 20, 1881, and in April, 1882 received a patent therefor. The supreme court held that Mrs. Galliher had no equity of title to the land and confirmed Caldwell's title.

Brodie's Dive Eclipsed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 17.—Last evening Thomas A. Madden of this city made the phenomenal dive of 149 feet from the great bridge into the Mississippi river, thus eclipsing Steve Brodie's leap from the Brooklyn bridge. Madden jumped from the iron girders that rise on either side of the roadway. He did not drop as professionals, but leaped feet down.

FARIBAULT, Minn., Special, May 17.—The Carleton and Shattuck clubs, intercollegiate baseball league, played here to-day, Shattuck failed to get a run, while Carleton scored fourteen times.

YANKTON, S. D., Special, May 17.—A state intercollegiate league ball game here to-day resulted: Yankton college 4; Vermillion university 3.

How's This, Mr. Blaine?

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Representative Geary of California will introduce in the house a resolution requesting the secretary of state to report the reasons for the removal of Frederic A. Bancroft of Illinois from the position of librarian of the state department and his nomination, without his knowledge or consent, to be consul at Brunswick, Germany.

Democratic Delegates.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 17.—The Democratic territorial convention to-day selected the following delegates to the Chicago national convention: A. G. Oliver, A. C. Baker, M. J. Nugent, L. C. Hughes, E. E. Ellingwood, Henry T. Smith. The convention indorses Marcus A. Smith, delegate to congress; also Grover Cleveland.

Young Ward Fooled 'Em.

NEW YORK, Special—It transpires that H. Ward McAllister is married, and has been since 1887, to Jennie Champion, daughter of the late G. W. Garmany of Savannah, Ga. The young man, whose marriage is only just published, nearly five years after date, is a son of the only Ward McAllister, the inventor of the four hundred, and the man who boiled them down to one hundred and fifty.

Just Listen to This!

OTTAWA, Special—N. McInnes, dominion immigration agent, who has been operating in Michigan to induce disappointed settlers there to come to Manitoba and the Northwest, has arrived here. He comes to make arrangements for bringing 200 families into the Canadian Northwest.

A Drunken Husband's Crime.

OTTAWA, Ill., Special—Justus Moss, a moulder employed at the Adams factories at Marseilles, disappeared to-day after perpetrating a fearful double crime. Moss went home drunk, and upon his wife's remonstrating with him for his condition, gave her an almost merciless beating with his fists and then jumped upon her with his boot heels. The woman, who was in a delicate condition, was taken violently ill and gave birth to a premature child, which died, and the mother, after terrible sufferings, soon followed.

Arrived at Riga.

RIGA, Russia, Special—The American steamer Conemaugh, loaded with flour and grain and provisions from Philadelphia for the benefit of the starving Russian peasants, arrived in the Riga roadstead at midnight last night and the work of discharging the vessel is now in progress. This afternoon the municipal authorities and the chief residents of Riga extended most hearty greetings to those on board the Conemaugh. The czar yesterday signed a ukase permitting the exportation of oats and corn.

MILWAUKEE, Special—Sandelin Harler, fireman at Pabst's brewery, shot himself yesterday because of domestic trouble. To-day his wife killed herself by taking poison. Five children, two of them deaf mutes, are left to struggle with the world by the double tragedy.

AN ANCIENT IDOL.

The Modest Clay Deity of the Early American Heathen.

The State Historical Society was enriched recently by an image of pottery supposed to be an idol of some prehistoric race, probably the mound builders, says the Topeka Capital. The idol was found near Aron, Independence County, Ark., and was dug from a mound by relic hunters along with a number of decayed human bones, copper arrow heads and broken domestic utensils. It is the property of G. W. Hume, of Strasburg, Mo. The idol is seven inches in height by five inches in diameter. It is rudey constructed, having evidently been formed by hand, or at best very crude tools, from common clay, and afterward hardened by being dried in the sun.

The idol represents a human figure in a kneeling posture, the arms extending at the side. The features are rudely formed, yet, notwithstanding this, are not altogether repulsive, the nose being gracefully aquiline and the lips well formed. The ears are missing, but the remnants show that they were adorned with rings. The body is "squatty," and might be said to resemble a toad. At the top of the head there is a hole which seems to have served a purpose, probably that of fastening a headdress to the figure. The image would hardly be catalogued with the works of art, but it is nevertheless an interesting relic.

The race whose diety was represented by this clumsy bit of clay inhabited the Mississippi Valley from the great lakes to the gulf at a time to which the traditions of man runneth not. Who they were, where they came from, what their manner of life was is all a mystery. True, many mounds, excavations and burying grounds of this lost people have been discovered, but so far they have given but little of their history. That they lived and died before the race of American indians existed is proved by the fact that the traditions of the latter race contain no reference to this lost people, although their mounds and relics are mentioned. Many mounds of this kind are found in Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Indiana, and a few have been discovered in nearly all of the states of the Mississippi valley.

SHE CHANGED HER MIND,

And Then Changed It Again After Reading Her Former Lover's Letter.

Scene—A family sitting-room. Dramatis personæ—Young lady, brother, father, mother, parrot.

Enter young lady with a sealed letter in her hand.

"Here is a letter from Fred Blossom. It is postmarked Omaha. I never expected to hear from him again."

Mother—He is persistent enough, if that is all.

Father—You were a goose to refuse him, Edith. Young, good-looking and with plenty of money, he's a catch for any girl.

Brother—Don't you do it, sis. He's the biggest prig in fourteen countries. Tell him to stop asking you to marry him.

Parrot—Rats!

Edith—I've refused him twice.

Father—There's luck in odd numbers, I've heard say.

Mother—Read the letter.

Edith—Oh, its the same old, tedious story. I suppose I might as well say yes. He's bound to worry me into marrying him.

Parrot—You're another.

Father—He'll give you a fine home and a carriage to ride in. Don't be silly Edith. You'll never get such a chance again.

Edith—I-believe-I-could-love him-if-I-married-him. Well, then, this time it shall be yes. Dear Fred! How happy it will make him to hear me say yes, at last.

Brother—Read your letter, sis.

Edith—Oh, yes the letter. Breaks the seal and reads slowly.

DEAR MISS EDITH—You will be gratified to know that I am at last cured of my foolish passion for you, and am soon to be married to the sweetest and prettiest girl in Omaha. We will expect your congratulations.

FRED BLOSSOM.

WOMEN OF THE ARMY.

They Continue to Make Life Interesting at Frontier Posts Despite the Monotony.

If there are any women in America more fortunately and happily situated in life than the wives and daughters of the officers of the United States army they will have to be looked for through a Lick telescope, leveled to the plane of the horizon, and then will not be microscopically found. There is a chivalry, though chivalry may be jeered at, that surrounds the wives and daughters of our army which makes them content under the hardships of moving if not wholly satisfied or happy in some well-favored and desirable garrison. The wife, being a sensible woman and an American girl, marrying an army officer, soon catches on, knows how much her husband gets, and that he is sure of it, and can regulate household expenses or "the messing arrangements" accordingly. The daughter of one officer doesn't envy the girl of another of the same regiment, because she knows just how much both papas get. The social life of the army, therefore, is largely without bickering or false emulation, and the social features of the army are of a family character in a regiment or at a post.

Let it drop at this, the praise of encomium to be bestowed upon army women. They are jolly, forgiving, can adapt themselves in every circumstance, and they are the most motherly women in the world when they become the wives of colonels, looking after urchins from West Point as if they were the apples of their eye—especially if they have daughters of a marriageable age.—St. Louis Republic.

Pleasures of Memory.

What a blessed thing is memory! How it brings up the pleasures of the past, and hides its unpleasantness! You recall your childhood days, do you not and wish they would return? You remember the pleasant associations, while the unpleasant ones are forgotten. Perhaps to your mind comes the face of some friend. It was once a pale, sad face. It showed marks of pain, lines of care. It seemed to be looking into the hereafter, the unknown future. And then you recalled how it brightened, how it recovered its rosy hue, how it became a picture of happiness and joy. Do you remember these things? Many people do, and gladly tell how the health returned, how happiness came back, how the world seemed bright. They tell how they were once weak, nerveless, perhaps in pain, certainly unhappy. They tell of sleepless nights, restless days, untouched food, unstrung nerves. And then they tell how they became happy, healthy and strong once more. You have heard it often in the past, have you not? You have heard people describe how they were cured and kept in health? You certainly can remember what it is that has so helped people in America. If not, listen to what Mrs. Annie Jenness Miller, who is known universally as the great dress reformer, says: "Six years ago, when suffering from mental care and overwork, I received the most pronounced benefit from the use of that great medicine, Warner's Safe Cure." Ah, now you remember. Now you recall how many people you have heard say this same thing. Now you recollect how much you have heard of this great Cure. Now you are ready to admit that memory is usually pleasing, that the highest pleasure comes from perfect health, and that this great remedy has done more to produce and prolong health than any other discovery ever known in the entire history of the whole world.

Nothing Wasted.

In Paris nothing is wasted, not the smallest scrap of paper; that which every one else throws away here becomes a source of profit. Old provision tins, for instance, are full of money; the lead soldering is removed and melted down into cakes, while the tin goes to make children's toys. Old boots, however bad, always contain in the arch of the foot at least one sound piece that will serve again, and generally there are two or three others in the sole, the heel, and at the back. Scraps of paper go to the cardboard factory, orange peel to the marmalade maker, and so on. The ideas suggested are not always agreeable, and to see a ragpicker fishing orange peel out of the basket is enough to make one forswear marmalade—but there is worse than that. The most valuable refuse—that which fetches 2 francs the killo—is hair; the long goes to the hairdresser, while the short is used, among other things, for clarifying oils.—"The Saturday Review."

Two Sisters.

Here is a bit of dialogue from the New York Press. The moral of it is not expressed, but perhaps the reader will be able to find it.

"What is Mamie doing?"

"She is a saleslady."

"Does she earn much?"

"Hardly enough to keep soul and body together, but her sister helps her a little."

"What does her sister do?"

"She's a servant-girl."

IT RESPECTS THE LAW.

The Lottery Company's Good Faith.

[Washington telegram to Globe-Democrat.]

The New Orleans Postmaster, Capt. S. M. Eaton, is a little smooth-faced man, honest and shrewd. He is a great friend of Warmoth, but he has backed up the Postmaster-General's efforts vigorously in the fight on the lottery.

The year before the warfare began Mr. Eaton says the Lottery Company bought at the New Orleans office $103,000 worth of stamps and stamped envelopes. For that same year the total revenue of the office was $416,000. So it appears that the Lottery Company contributed within $1000 of one-fourth of the entire revenue of the office.

By the action of the department in enforcing the anti-lottery law passed by Congress this postal revenue from the lottery company became a dead loss. Last year's receipts by the New Orleans office reached a total of $352,000. The day before Capt. Eaton started to this conference the lottery company posted in all its branch offices in New Orleans a notice to this effect:

"The supreme court of the United States having decided the anti-lottery postal law to be constitutional, it is hereby ordered and directed that no one in the employ of this company shall mail a letter which in any way refers directly or indirectly to the business of the lottery. It must be understood that this company will aid in the enforcement of this law."

"I think that this notice is honest and sincere," said Capt. Eaton, "and the company means just what it says."

M. P. Philips, who in behalf of a syndicate of capitalists visited France in order to study the gambling rooms at Monte Carlo, has returned to New York. It is said the syndicates purpose is to get permission to open a resort similar to Monte Carlo at one of the American pleasure resorts.

A BOSTON WOOING.

A dainty maid of Beacon street
He loved with honest passion,
And being humbly at his feet,
He spoke in lover fashion:
"Thou art my world, my star, my light,
Thy grace all else surpasses,"
And like a love drop gleaming bright
A tear fell on her glasses.

She answered not a single word,
But turned her head away;
But he divined that she had heard
And there was no rejecting.
Twas as when through the depth of night
A brilliant comet passes.
He saw the tear, a jewel bright,
That glistened on her glasses.

"There's something behind it."

That's what you think, perhaps, when you read that the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer $500 reward for an incurable case of Catarrh. Rather unusual, you think, to find the makers of a medicine trying to prove that they believe in it. "There must be something back of it!"

But it's a plain, square offer, made in good faith. The only thing that's back of it is the Remedy. It cures Catarrh in the Head. It is mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, the worst cases yield, no matter how bad or of how long standing. It has a record that goes back for 25 years. It doesn't simply relieve—it perfectly and permanently cures. With a Remedy like this, the proprietors can make such an offer and mean it. To be sure there's risk in it, but it's no very small risk that they are willing to take it.

You've never heard of anything like this offer before. True enough. But then you've never heard of anything like Dr. Sage's Remedy.

Table Manners.

Probably there is no people in the world so uncivilized as not to have among themselves a code of manners, more or less strictly defined. Mr. Bishop, while on his thousand-mile walk across South America, was impressed with this fact. He describes a rude meal in which he shared with a company of cart-drivers—"almost savage gauchos"—in whose company he was then traveling.

We encamped near a swamp, and supped upon pumpkins, boiled with bits of meat, and seasoned with salt. The meal was served in genuine pampa fashion (one iron spoon and two cow's horns, split in halves, were passed around the group, the members squatted upon their haunches, and freely helped themselves from the kettle.

Even in this most uncivilized form of satisfying appetite there is a peculiar etiquette, which the most lowly pcon invariably observes. Each member of the company in turn dips his spoon, or horn, into the center of the stew and draws it in a direct line toward him, never allowing it to deviate to the right or the left.

By observing this rule, each person eats without interfering with his neighbor. Being ignorant of this custom, I dipped my horn in the kettle at random, and failed about for some of the nice bits.

My companions regarded this horrid breach of politeness with scowls of impatience. They declared, with some warmth, to the cook that gringos did not know how to eat, and, "as they were upon the point of their distant country, they came to the great Argentine Republic to get food and grow fat on the gauchos."

I apologized as well as I could, and endeavored thereafter to eat according to gauchic etiquette.

Soap and Potatoes.

Like all primitive peoples, the Macories are very inquisitive, and, in the manner of children, are inclined to bring everything to their mouths to test its qualities. In the early days a party of Macries came across some bars of soap which had been washed ashore from a wreck. Finding that the stuff was too sticky to be eaten raw, they rendered it down in a kettle, ingly they cut it up into small pieces, and sprinkled these pieces over the sweet potatoes which they cooked for their evening meal. Finally they ortered the whole mass over with fern leaves and mats, and, putting earth on the top, left every thing to bake quietly in the ovens till the evening. The scene at the evening meal must have been very funny. Not only did the tribe have to go supperless to bed, but the whole sec. of ovens was spoilt, and two were had to be constructed before any further cooking could be done.—"All the Year Round."

It transpires that the recent sword duel at Buda Pesth between Herr Horvarth and Lieut. Gratzy was not the first duel that the first report indicated. Horvarth was wounded, although not dangerously, in the shoulder, and it is said that a slight scalp wound inflicted on Gratzy was the first wound received by either combatant.

THE STORY OF STE. CECILE.

In a picture gallery in one of the large cities that border upon the Gulf there is a group of life-size figures painted in oils and set in a massive copper frame.

The artist's name is unknown, but it is said upon the overthrow of Montezuma this picture was seized and brought to this country from Mexico.

The painting represents a young and beautiful woman reclining in a garden which stands beside her, its strings seeming almost to vibrate from the touch of her fingers. Her rich drapories fall in marvelous folds of sheen and color, and her golden hair flows like an aureole round her fair shoulders, while her face wears a rapt, seraphic expression as she gazes upon an angel lighting his golden pinions above her head. Kneeling at the feet of the woman is a youth in Spanish costume, who is overwhelmed, it would seem, by her glorious beauty. Many years ago this painting, reaching from floor to ceiling, stood against the wall of a miserable apartment overlooking the busy streets of the Mexican capital. Here it was discovered in ohs and set in a massive copper frame.

"It is supposed to be a picture of Spaniard by birth, of middle age, once handsome, now worn and wasted with disease, and with the fire of misery by some, by others a spendthrift. A miser because he would not spend a penny for what sold for great sums, yet he lived so meanly; a spendthrift because he gave gold coins to a little pensioner who climbed the uncertain staircase to look at this wonderful picture Ste. Cecile. For years the owner of the face burned itself out in the accomplishment of this, his last work, yet so like to be some of his earlier work, yet so like to be some of his earlier work, yet so like to be some of his earlier

Is He Lost or Drowned!

About Sunday noon, Leopold Fepin, an 8-year-old son of Paul Pepin, who lives on Rosewood street, between Fifth and Sixth, in company with four other little boys, was playing on a raft on the shore of Boom Lake near J. J. Howe & Co.'s mill. While the other boys were fixing the raft he went out on the boom, and when they called him to go to dinner he said he waited to play awhile longer. They again turned their attention to the raft for a few moments when they again called to him only to find that he had disappeared. Not having heard any splashing of the water, as would have been likely had he fallen in, they went home, supposing that he had come ashore and gone home ahead of them. On their arrival home they were surprised not to find him there. Search was immediately begun for the young fellow, but as yet he has not been found. It is generally believed that he has been drowned, although Boom Lake was thoroughly dragged Monday without finding the body. The water of this lake is very deep in places and very muddy, and the bottom is filled with moss, hence it is quite likely that the little fellow's body is lodged in such a way that the hooks could not reach. Dynamite was also used without any effect. It is believed by some that he may have gone ashore and strayed into the woods and got lost or fallen into the river, but this seems hardly probable. It is quite likely that with a little more effort the body will be removed from Boom Lake.

The little fellows parents are distracted with grief over his loss, and it is to be hoped that something definite concerning him will be discovered ere long.

Billy Marble.

Wm. Marble, or "Billy Marble" as he is generally called, comes from an old theatrical family, the oldest in America. His grandfather came to this country among the first actors that ever crossed the Atlantic, in the company and in the same ship with the grandfather of Joseph Jefferson. Marble's grandfather, William Warren, built the Chestnut street theatre in Philadelphia, and Holiday street theatre in Baltimore, and had the honor of acting before Gen. Washington. Marble's grandfather and Joe Jefferson's grandfather married sisters. So that Mr. Marble comes naturally as honestly by his great gift as a commedian; a role he has for years so well filled as to place him among the first in his line on the American stage.

AN Enthusiastic Mass Meeting Held at the Opera House Last Saturday Evening.

An Election Called by the County Commissioners on Tuesday, the 31st of May, 1892.

The one all absorbing topic of conversation in the City of the Pines for the past week has been the proposition of the Northern Mill Co. and the Brainerd & Northern Minnesota Railway Co., whereby both can be secured for this city. Wherever you went, on the street or in the shops or stores, it was all the same, the proposition as published in our last issue was being discussed, and nearly everyone seemed to be of the opinion that it was Brainerd's opportunity to take a step forward to that prominence which her natural advantages entitle her to. In the city there is practically no opposition, all our citizens realizing that to accept is for the best interests of the city, while the opposition which it was first thought would be encountered in the country is fast dwindling away before the unanswerable arguments that are being presented in behalf of the proposition. Indeed, so rapidly are the ranks of the opposition being thinned out, that we firmly believe by election day there will not be one single precinct in the county that will return a majority against it.

WHAT THE PROJECT MEANS.

Few of our citizens, we believe, realize the magnitude of the enterprise that the acceptance of this proposition will bring. The Mill Co. binds itself to establish here a mill of the capacity of 175,000 feet of lumber in ten hours, or a duplicate of the mill they are now operating in Minneapolis. When run double time, which is frequently the case, this mill has produced 400,000 feet in one day. At such times the monthly pay roll of the mill alone is $18,000 per month, or about two-thirds of the monthly pay roll of the N. P. company in this city, and when we consider that the company will not only pay the mill men here, but also the men employed on the railroad, both those in the operating department and in the shops which the company has bound itself to establish here, it can easily be seen that the monthly pay roll of this institution will equal, if not exceed, the N. P. shops. Who would not give a boons of $100,000 to have another such an industry established here as the N. P. shops. He would be a fool, indeed, who rejected such a proposition.

THE MASS MEETING.

The mass meeting at the opera house last Saturday night, called to have the proposition read, explained and considered, was a most enthusiastic one indeed, the spacious building being crowded to its utmost limits by interested citizens, notwithstanding the extremely inclement weather prevailing that night. The meeting was called to order shortly after 8 o'clock by Alderman Williamson, who proposed the name of L. P. White, Sr., as chairman of the meeting, which met with the approval of the meeting. Mr. White, on taking the chair, set the ball rolling by stating the object of the meeting and the substance of the proposition, and then called upon City Attorney McClenahan, who had conducted the negotiations with the Mill Co. on the part of the city, to explain the matter at length. Mr. McClenahan then read the proposition of the railroad company, and explained to all the substance of the contract with the Mill Co. would be. He also explained clearly the necessity for the two contracts, and closed his remarks with a few arguments why the city should embrace this opportunity for her advancement. Judge W. A. Fleming, was next called upon for an expression of opinion upon the subject, and delivered the most telling arguments of the evening in its favor. He clearly showed the farmers that of the $6,000 a year interest on the bonds the city alone had to pay $4,600, or over three-fourths of the entire amount, while the entire county outside of the city had but one-fourth to pay, which would be returned to them ten-fold by improved markets and added value to their farm property by the growth of the city. He concluded by assuring them that unless this proposition was accepted the Mill Co. would not locate on Gull River, Cass county will be organized, and this county would loose the revenue from Cass county, which would raise the taxes twice as much as paying interest on these bonds. Bro. Stivers, of the Journal, followed with a few remarks in favor of the proposition, showing that the value of the real property in a community depended wholly on the improvements made, consequently farms in this county would increase in value with all new improvements. At the conclusion of Mr. Stivers' remarks the chairman called upon anyone in the audience who so desired to express an opinion in regard to the matter. Dr. Groves offered a few words in favor of the scheme, and then moved that a committee of nine, one from each ward in the city and four from the county be appointed by the chair or audience, with whom the contract and bond for the building of the mill could be made on the part of the county. A motion was made that the committee be appointed by the audience, but this was not seconded the chair put a motion to have the committee appointed by the chair, which was declared carried. As this appeared to cause some dissatisfaction a new motion was made and carried to have the committee appointed by the audience. At this junction A. F. Ludwig, the Farmer's Alliance lecturer of the county, arose in the rear of the hall and began to address the meeting. He was invited to take the platform which he did, when he began to deliver himself over the wrongs of the farmer and laboring man. As he ignored the question at issue, some boisterous cries and hisses were indulged in by some impatient ones, and Mr. Ludwig left the stage, declaring he would not finish. Order was soon restored and Mr. Ludwig was invited to give his opinion of the proposition, but he declined to do so. The chair then appointed the following gentlemen as members of the committee:

First Ward—H. C. Stivers.
Second Ward—W. S. McClenahan.
Third Ward—W. W. Williamson.
Fourth Ward—T. W. Crawford.
Fifth Ward—Con. O'Brien.
Ft. Ripley—C. B. Clouse.
Crow Wing—John Drake.
Deerwood—H. Patterson.
Oak Lawn—Geo. Keough.

On motion a campaign committee was then appointed by the chair to have charge of conducting the campaign for the proposition as follows: H. C. Stivers, A. F. Ferris, Dr. Groves, John Willis and Joel Smith. Dr. Groves was, at his own request, excused from serving on the committee, and Dr. Henstead was appointed in his stead. Judge Fleming then moved that it is the sense of this meeting that the proposition be accepted, which motion was adopted with shouts of applause, but one lone vote being heard in the negative. The meeting then adjourned.

THE ELECTION CALLED.

On Tuesday the county commissioners met in regular session and after considering the formal application for aid on the part of the railroad company, adopted a resolution waiving the right of the county to receive stock of the railroad in exchange for the bonds, and instructed the auditor to issue a call for a special election to be held Tuesday, May 31st, and then appointed the judges and clerks of election for the precincts in the unorganized portions of the county, whose names are published elsewhere in this issue.

ANOTHER MASS MEETING TO-MORROW.

In order that the farmers might have a better opportunity to have the matter explained to them, another mass meeting has been called for 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the opera house, when all details in regard to signing the contracts will have been completed, and the matter will be fully and freely explained. It is especially desired that all farmers in the county be present at the meeting.

THE MILL CONTRACT.

On Monday evening, Ray B. Jones, vice president and general manager of the railroad company, and secretary of the Northern Mill company, arrived in the city with the railroad proposition and mill contract both duly signed. On Tuesday afternoon the committee appointed by the mass meeting for the purpose of receiving the mill contract on the part of the county, had a meeting, all being present except C. B. Clouse, of Ft. Ripley. A few changes of the contract was suggested by the committee, and Mr. McClenahan was delegated to go to Minneapolis Wednesday morning to confer with the company in regard to these matters. An agreement was reached with the company by which the bonds were to be held in escrow until the mill as well as the railroad is completed. This is fully as good as the giving of a bond on the part of the company. The following is the mill contract:

THIS INDENTURE made and entered into this 16th day of May, A. D. 1892, by and between the Northern Mill Company, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of Minnesota, party of the first part, and John Drake, Harry Patterson, C. AND WHEREAS said party of the second part constitute a committee of the citizens of said County of Crow Wing in this behalf and are desirous of having said first party locate a saw mill at or near the City of Brainerd with a view to the benefit that would accrue to the County and City from the location of a mill at that point.

NOW THEREFORE in consideration of the premises and of the benefits which shall accure to said parties of the first part by the construction of said road by said Railway Company, thus enabling said first party to locate said saw mill at Brainerd, and for other valuable considerations, said party of the first part for itself and its successors hereby covenants to and with said parties of the second part, their personal representatives and assigns, acting as a committee of the citizens of Crow Wing County and on behalf of said County, that if an agreement shall be arrived at and perfected between said Crow Wing County and said Railroad Company in accordance with said proposition, for the construction of said road by said Railroad Company and the issuance of said bonds by said Crow Wing County, said parties of the first part its successors and assigns, shall and will prior to the first day of May, A. D. 1893, build, construct, equip and complete upon some suitable site on section thirty-one (31) eighteen (18) north of range twenty (20) in Township forty-five (45), Range thirty (30) in said Crow Wing County, or on any said sections, a steam saw mill with capacity of at least 175,000 feet of lumber per day of ten hours, provided with adequate and sufficient piling grounds for lumber and with all suitable and proper appliances and appurtenances for operation as a permanent industry at all times during the milling seasons from and after its completion.

Said party of the first part proposes in the construction and equipment of said saw mill to use so far as it can be reasonably made available, the materials, machinery and appliances now used and connected with the present mill of said first party at Gull River, in said Cass County and reserve the right to do so.
