A Comparison.

In 1892 and previous years, when the republican party was in power and republican principles and policies prevailed, the country was prosperous as it never had been before. Business was booming, labor was well paid and every one was contented and happy. The democrats, in order to get office, used every means to excite the passions against the republican policy of protection, asserting that it fostered trusts and favored the interests of the rich. Unthinking voters were at last induced in sufficient numbers to vote for democratic nominees to elect a democratic president and congress, and a democratic free trade policy was inaugurated. A panic ensued and four years of hard times succeeded as such as the country never saw before. Millions of men were idle, constantly during those years, business was paralyzed and property values shrank more than one-half. Realizing that a policy which had been so disastrous was fatal to future success, the democratic party foresaw free trade for free silver, desiring to add disunion and secession to business paralysis and starving labor. These were unsuccessful and a republican president and congress were elected, and republican policies have been again adopted, and although the country has been only a few months under republican rule the future is already looking bright and rosy. Labor is again finding employment and in many instances at increased wages, the volume of business is increasing to such an extent that the commercial agencies report the largest volume of business for that month since 1892. Money that for four years has been in hiding is going into circulation further stimulating trade and the look of it placed at republican hands is again providing beautiful crops this fall, helping to swell the coming tide of prosperity and plenty. When you compare the condition existing under democratic and republican policies, it is a mystery to us how any intelligent man can be foolish enough supporting democracy by the 10 to 1 ratio, or for any other reason. We do not believe we think they can be again.

The Populists are not now talking about a death of gold in this country.

Prosperity is returning in spite of the calamity striking of the 10 to 1ers.

Isn't it about time for the Journal to again proclaim the price of silver regulates the price of wheat.

The volume of business of the country for July was the greatest since 1892. The times of 1892 are returning.

Silver is getting as cheap as good silver, remarks the Minneapolis Journal. Yes, in the meantime wheat is but let that pass.

The people down in Ohio are wondering how they managed their own politics before Charley Towse made up his mind to help them along.

The number of business failures in July throughout the country was the smallest in five years, when we also had a republican administration.

Disturbances in Norway and Sweden in a little less than a month as Minneapolis are inhabited and there is every reason to believe that the now gold country of Alaska is now undrained as there with proper food, clothing and shelter.

Towse's Duluth Herald contained a column editorial showing that the increased price of wheat was due to increased demand. Last fall the Herald insisted that the price was regulated by the price of silver, but that was just before election, and the Herald wanted to make votes for Charley Towse.

DEATHS IN THE PAST WEEK.

Over 200 people and 700 teams in the Yellowstone Park and the northern Pacific people report the heaviest travel ever known in the history of the road.

Two of the recently appointed Chippewa pine estimators, Chas. Hendon and T. A. Kribb, have already been rejected and their successors appointed. The reason is stated to have been because they had served on previous boards.

W. J. DeVan is now doing the Yellowstone Park. In the meantime wheel ruts in price and silver fall just the same as when he was selling the public last fall how they were inseparable. Williams may be able to "do" the park if he did fail to do the people.

A WASHINGTON correspondent gives C. A. Towse the following pointer: "Just where are the silver republican going to land? What are the chances of doing good times should come in spite of them? I think Charley Towse had better be adjusting his parachute."

New gold countries will have to be discovered in order to accommodate the mining syndicates being organized. The Dominion government has come to this conclusion, however, by re-locating the claim area from 500 to 100 feet making room for five million instead of one on that much ground.

The Otter Tail county people have been accorded a game warden hired by the year at a salary of $900, besides a dozen special wardens for a short period. It might be well to remark in this connection that a little game protection in this neck-of-the-woods would be a mighty good thing at the present time.

Dar laborers in Duluth are reported so scarce that outsiders must be imported to supply the demand, notwithstanding the fact that the pay is 25 per cent higher than last year, when the question was how to feed those who could not get work. This is the difference between democratic and republican times.

The register of deeds of St. Louis county, F. J. Borgstrom, was convicted of misappropriating the fees which should have gone into the county treasury and on Tuesday was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and spend one year in the state prison. The Duluth Herald thinks the result of this case will have a beneficial effect as it will cause all public officials in that and adjoining counties to register the responsibilities resting upon them and to perform their duties with due respect to the law and to the interests of the people who elected them.

Out to Reservation.

E. Bender, of Washington, a specialist in the care of the indigent, who has been looking over the damaged timber on the Leech Lake reservation, says that he found that there is a large amount of timber on the reservation that should be cut without delay. He said that it would be taken care of in either one of two ways. One plan being considered is for the government to furnish supplies and a loggers outfit to the Indians and have them cut the logs, while the other is to let a contract to some responsible logger to do the work. Mr. Bender thinks that the latter plan will be adopted and says that if it is the contract will be let about Oct. 1.

The Gowing State Fair.

The dates for the Minnesota State Fair this year have been fixed from Sept. 9th to 11th, both inclusive. The work, Mr. Bender thinks that the latter plan will be adopted and says that if it is the contract will be let about Oct. 1.

Warrent on the Strength of a Dream.

A telegram from Frederic, Minn., says John M. Carroll, a well known colored man of Frederic, went before Justice Bier the other morning and asked that a search warrant be issued against Mattias Locks, who he said he believed had stolen a gold watch chain that belonged to his dead wife.

Carroll told the justice he had dreamed that Mattias Locks, who was a friend of the family, had stolen the watch chain.

The dream trouble! him so he had to come to the justice's office. As he had no other way to get the watch chain, he was issued a search warrant and sent to a thorough search of the house the chain was found. The justice's office is now holding the case. The Frederic court clerk says—Washington Post.

THE ALLIGATOR GOT HIM.

Paul Rogers, James Anderson and Willis Samuels, who were on the Black point, five miles south of Jacksonville, Fla., at sunrise to bring a load of mackerel down. As they had to wait the turning of the tide they went out in a boat.

Samuels swam out into the river, and when the other boys saw him they began to laugh. He was a large alligator, drawing nearer and nearer. In a second the alligator caught him around the waist and held him in its jaws as he fought for his life.

Samuels screamed like the air and the alligator came, leaving the water dyed with blood for several rods. They then rowed out, but it was too late, as they saw no more of Samuels. His body, while the water was blood colored, was seen to rise to the surface and to sink and said they were afraid to go back and told his old mother of his fearful fate.

They say that they recognized the alligator as one living at the dock at Black point, and though he had killed dogs before they had never known him to attack a human being. A party will go in search of him, as having captured him, it will be dangerous to let him loose. The body of the alligator is now in the hands of the St. Johns River drainage board.

The Indiana to Go to Halifax.

Secretary Lane has decided to send the battleship Oregon to Halifax, N. S., to be docked and cleaned. It is felt to be necessary to do this in order to prevent injury to the hull of the ship from corrosion. The department would have much prefer to send the Indiana to Port Royal, S. C., for this purpose, but the opinion of the last navigation in the navy department is that it would be definitely risky in the present time to send the Indiana to Port Royal.

Constructor Bunker of the New York navy yard has just returned to New York after a consultation with the officials here regarding the docking of the Indiana.

It is the intention of Secretary Lane to send the Indiana to Halifax, N. S., to be docked and cleaned. The department would have much prefer to send the Indiana to Port Royal, S. C., for this purpose, but the opinion of the last navigation in the navy department is that it would be definitely risky in the present time to send the Indiana to Port Royal.

John Hughes, a colored boy, had been making himself ostentatiously by banging around and overhauling neighborhood people, while he would relate to the persons talked about, giving the names of the goons.

Many complaints were made against the boy, but Justice Converse could not find to act upon till he put on his spectacles and, going through his own doggy old lawbook, found the statute upon which Hughes was immediately indicted before the bar of Justice and sent to the County prison. He had ten days that being the fullest extent of punishment permissible.—Exchange.

A BIG UNDERTAKING.

MEASURING THE EARTH'S LATEST ENGLISH PEAK.

A Chicago Advertiser is attempting the object—in a few days—will possibly a long time to do the work.

REPARATIONS are being made in London for the most gigantic undertaking in the way of a survey ever attempted. It is proposed to measure the earth. Now, it only needs a glance at one of the humile initiations of this terrestrial sphere to see that it is no light task. It involves the expenditure of millions. It means continuous scientific research for a period the length of which no one can tell.

Scientists are considering the globe with the deepest interest. It is a strange fact that the more the problem of the formation of the earth is studied by scientists the more is the belief that the earth is not round, cracked. This has been a common belief since Professor A. P. Leitch, one of the leading members of the Royal Astronomical Society, is the author of this belief, and he represents a host of others of equal prominence.

The London air at present knows an 89 degree and 32 minutes in the distance from the Arctic coast of the North Pole, in latitude 45 degrees 23 minutes 23 seconds. The distance is marked by a pyramid of cast iron, which rests on a cube seven feet wide, bearing an inscription showing what the monument really is. The monument is in the shape of a hammer, in Norway. Another monument is in the shape of a pedestal of granite, and at the top, on a bronze base, is a terrestrial globe of copper, bearing the name of the settlement.

The northern termination of the line of the meridian of 25 degrees 20 minutes from the Arctic coast of the River Danube, through Norway, Swe-

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Mr. Hoover's new tinny preserves are being sold in the Ladies' Home Journal.

At the outset of her lesson she emphasizes the value of securing perfectly sound and fresh fruits, and the necessity of getting the cans and canning appliances in readiness in advance. To prevent breakage when filling the jars, Mrs. Hoover advises that they be slipped "sidewise into a jar of hot water, rolling them so that every part may be equally and uniformly heated." Fold a damp towel in the bottom of a padding pan, then near the preserving table; stand a jar on the towel, and if the fruit is small adjust the funnel; fill quickly to overflowing. Run a heated silver knife around the inside of the jar, to break any air bubbles that may have been caught with the fruit, and adjust the rubber, then lift the lid from the jar and place it at once. If the large fruit fill with a wooden spoon, arranging the fruit so that the weight of one piece will not destroy the shape of another. Fill to overflowing with the liquid, water or syrup, and fasten tightly. After sealing stand the jars out of a draught over night. The glass by this time will have contracted, the lid will, in consequence, be loose. Tip each jar carefully, and give the top a gentle tap with the fingers, to settle the contents. Put away in a cool, dark closet. At the end of a week examine each jar, and if necessary, shaking or disturbing more than necessary. If you find the lid slightly loose, the contents firm on all air bubbles or froth, and the liquid united, you may rest assured that the jar is safe. If you do not find it so, open the jar, and repeat the process.

A DAINTY PICNIC LUNCHEON.

A Panama Cooking Expert suggests a goodly quantity of fruit, a box of well-made sandwiches, some eggs and coffee, with a few fingers, will provide a comfortable luncheon and dinner for two or three persons. It suggests a number of picnic lunches in the August Ladies' Home Journal.

An alcohol stove, costing but twenty-five cents, with two ounces of alcohol, will furnish boiling water for coffee, and will cook a dish of scrambled eggs or make a Welsh rabbit. The stove is a small tin can with a glass chimney and a small boiler. The coffee may be brewed in the boiler, and the water for the coffee, hot, may be carried in a jar, and the salad arranged on wooden plates. Vegetables and fruit are as good as fresh. Sardines, sardines or salmon may be mixed, rubbed to a paste with a little lemon juice, and used as filling for sandwiches. Lemon for innominate may be substituted for the filling, mixed with a proper proportion of sugar, four tablespoons to each good sized lemon, poured into a bottle and dished at the picnic ground. Condensed milk can be carried and will answer the purpose of either milk or cream.

THE FAMOUS MONUMENT AT HAMMERFEST, NORWAY.

den and Russia, which, according to the orders of His Majesty King Oscar I. and the Emperor Alexander I. and Nicholas I. and by subsequent orders from 1816 to 1832, was measured by the geometers of the three nations. When the present air was completed it was celebrated as the completion of the greatest undertaking of the sort ever carried to completion. Therefore how much greater is the present plan for contemplating the measurement of an arc of 100 degrees.

The probabilities are that the carrying out of the latest plan will not take nearly a century and a half. The knowledge which is already ours will accelerate it.

LATE NEW INVENTIONS.

A clever Swedish, whereby an out-of-town jewelry firm lost a gold watch valued at $300, was revealed by member of the firm to some of his friends in this city the other day. A well-dressed man called at the store, and after much deliberating, chose a watch and gave his check for $300 in payment for it. "I want you to have the watch repaired," he said to the clerk, "so I can get it tomorrow afternoon. In the meantime you can ascertain whether the dialect is good." The next afternoon he called and was informed that the check had been returned from the bank on which it was drawn with "No funds" stamped on it. He looked surprised and asked to see it. "Why, what a mistake!" he said when he saw the check. "Of course it was no good. I carry a number of loose checks in my pocket to oblige my friends and I used the wrong one. Here I will draw one on a check. I have a deposit in and will wait here while some one goes to the bank." This was satisfactory and the man set down to write. After several minutes he jumped up and said: "Oh, what's the use of waiting here all this time? I'll just pay cash for the watch. Got my check back." (In the meantime the check had been taken to the office of the firm and returned to the man.) The messenger was called back and the check returned to the man, who then shrewdly led with the watch. A short

THE MORMON SEMI-CENTENNIAL.

Some of the colonists remained in the time has come when the charge is not believed, although stories are plenty may be heard.

They took with them reasons for their stay. They were told of the sufferings they must endure. Yet they traveled the fifteen hundred miles gladly. They made their homes in the repellent land because Brigham Young told them that there they would thrive and become mighty.

How then any other Mormon? Young has received his promise. He was a truly great leader of men and one of the greatest colonists the world has ever known. His people believed in him because they were sure he received revelations from God. Brigham Young was always a great hand at receiving revelations.

It was Brigham Young who created the whole system of Mormonism, who counseled his people to gather in villages and towns. It is plain now that what was his aim to have the Mormons stand together by the closest ties.

No sooner were the first colonists firmly established than misadventures were sent forth to stain the record, but place, the Assembly, the Amelita park and the other buildings were a part of the growth of the Latter Day Saints is the most important thing in it, too, is the largest group of people into an unknown wilderness in Utah, in the largest group of people into an unknown wilderness in Utah, in the largest group of people into an unknown wilderness in Utah.

After leading the stars and stripes the leader of these sturdy pioneers cooking later an ordinary tin plaid will answer. The coffee may be brewed in the boiler, and the water for the coffee, hot, may be carried in a jar, and the salad arranged on wooden plates. Vegetables and fruit are as good as fresh. Sardines, sardines or salmon may be mixed, rubbed to a paste with a little lemon juice, and used as filling for sandwiches. Lemon for innominate may be substituted for the filling, mixed with a proper proportion of sugar, four tablespoons to each good sized lemon, poured into a bottle and dished at the picnic ground. Condensed milk can be carried and will answer the purpose of either milk or cream.

Several of the violent storms that have whirled over the Malinsus rock have tried the fortitude of the little band of faithful watchers upon it, says the Century Magazine. One of these watchers, Abby Burgess, has become famous in the Malinsus annals, not only for long service, but also for her father was keeper of the rock from 1853 to 1861.

Malayan Marriage.
On the Malacca islands the wives are treated as property by their husbands. The priest who performs the marriage ceremony over a Malayan bride couple gives to the husband the following monition:

"Do not wound your wife with the lance or knife. If she refuses to obey you, take her into a room by herself and chastise her with a cane." Provided the cloth is not tied into a dozen knots, no more gentle method of approval could be devised.—St. Louis Republic.

The Ephraim.
John Pennell Peters, in his book "Nipper, or Explorations on the Ephraim," thus describes that great river of history:

"The Ephraim now flows through a dismal desert—a stream of muddy water, with tamarisk and poplar jungles, while heretics and duna fields and a few small towns and villages occupy a narrow, deep depression in a sterile, treeless plateau, inhabited only by nomads. But this has not always been the case. In ancient times Homopolis, on the River Khabor, northward and westward, seems to have been fairly well wooded, well inhabited and prosperous, while the Syrian side of the river, from the bend by Barhaleh and upward, was rich and densely settled, and even to the south and east of this the ruins of important cities may still be found, and the Assyrian annals tell of forests in the same direction, remnants of which have been lately rediscovered. In times of prosperity and progress and with a strong power controlled part or the whole of the Ephraim valley, civilization included, and established posts and roads, which checked and drove back the Arabs and checked the area of cultivable land."
