Deerwood	9.50	2.375	9.50	2.375	9.50	2.375
Total	$202,800	$50,700	$202,800	$50,700	$202,800	$50,700

The meeting was presided over by H. O. Hughey, Howard Baker being the temporary secretary. The name of the association which had been decided on at a previous meeting was changed and in future it will be known as the Brainerd-Co-operative Creamery Association. The permanent officers chosen were:

President - H. H. Douck
Vice President - N. Washburn
Secretary - J. A. Wilson
Treasurer - John Larson
Trustees - John Gustafson, Joseph Rooks, N. Nason and H. C. Hughey
Committees were appointed as follows:

Committee of Plant - C. E. Peabody, Joseph Rosko and Con O'Brien.
On Wall - John Gustafson, H. H. Douck and John Larson.
The committee made a report on by-laws, articles of organization, etc., which was accepted by the association. The committee appointed to locate the plant made a report in which they favored the site on the Baker place south of the city at what is known as the "spring" and the report was adopted and filed after which the meeting adjourned.

The school clerk held their annual election on Tuesday and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

President - J. F. Eady
First Vice Pres. - James Harmon
Second Vice Pres. - J. McCarthy
Recording and corresponding Secretary - H. J. Linnemann
Financial Secretary - C. Smallwood
Treasurer - O. A. Sandberg
Grecian - G. B. Waters
Glide - R. H. Dalmann
Treasurer - E. R. Rik, R. G. Vallentyne and F. A. Bradbury.

The daily press brings the information that Chas. A. Towne is a candidate for the presidency and that the so-called silver Republicans will give him their support. It is stated that Bryan is out of the question.

The name of Hon. Leon E. Lund, of Duluth, is among the number of those suggested as candidates for the position of Judge of the supreme court. Mr. Lund has many friends in this part of the state who would be pleased to see him thus honored.

The writer spent a day at Walker the first of the week and found a busy town. The largest amount of logging business has been done in the fall. The water has made business lively and the place is full of people. The hotel is crowded with boarders. Garry is proprietor has been enjoying phenomenal run of business ever since it was opened late in the fall. The hotel is electric lighted and steam heated and presents all the comforts of a hotel one would expect to find in a city of 6000 people. The business outlook for the winter is bright. The coming summer are very bright and it is probable the hotel will be filled to overflowing with tourists and people who will spend the summer at this beautiful lake resort. The building of the Great Northern into Walker and the extension of the B. & N. M. will be among the things that will make it a lively place during the coming season.

James E. Masterson, who has been sent to the Fergus Falls insane asylum three times, twice from Brainerd and once from here, was again before the Probate Court yesterday for recommitment upon complaint made by his brother who lives at Foley. He was taken from St. Cloud by Sheriff Leves and placed in the Judge of Probate's office where Drs. Holden of Duluth Rapids and Medicine of St. Cloud were ready to examine him before proceedings had fairly commenced County Attorney Van Etten appeared and raised the question of jurisdiction, and the young man was put under oath as to his place of residence and he swore that he was a resident of Brainerd. The County Attorney then instructed the Judge of Probate to furnish the sheriff process to take Masterson to Brainerd and turn him over to the sheriff of Crow Wing county which was done - Brainerd Rapids Free Press.

DEATHS.

Joseph Bacon, aged 78 years, died at his home in Southeast Brainerd on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 25th, of La Grippe. The funeral services are to be held this (Friday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of the Rev. C. C. Markham preaching the funeral sermon. The deceased has resided in the city for many years and died at a young age as proprietor of a planing mill on south 6th street near the old mill track. Two sons and one daughter, Frank and Walter Bacon, and Mrs. Russell, are left to mourn his death.

Miss Allie Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hanson, of this city, died yesterday afternoon. She had been sick for several days and died very suddenly at Leithrop on Sunday evening. The young lady had been engaged in teaching school at the above place and up to a few hours before her death was apparently in her usual good health. The remains were brought to this city on Tuesday, the funeral being held on Wednesday afternoon from the Baptist church at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. C. C. Markham officiating. Deceased was 30 years old and was highly esteemed by a large circle of acquaintances. The family have the sincere sympathy of the community in their recent bereavement within a few weeks.

The East Grand Forks Courier says Mrs. Katz, of Brainerd, who has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Yaffee, died yesterday afternoon.

The last installment of the reservoir drainage fund, amounting to $25,000 will be paid in the Mississippi and Pillager Chippewa Indians some time the latter part of the month. The sum per capita will amount to about $2.50.

Kept in a Hoop.

A well dressed, middle aged woman of Doanor, Ala. recently sworn out a warrant for Judge Edwards for her arrest for desertion. William Bolin, for desertion.

Mrs. Bolin said they had been living happily together near Elmont, Ala. and have several children. Bolin, however, became infatuated with a good looking young woman of that neighborhood a few days ago while Mrs. Bolin was absent from home her husband told all their household goods and money to the girl, took his six children by the hand and fled with them to a houseboat, loaded it with provisions and furniture and started floating down the river, stating to parties at the river that he was going down into the Mississippi and settle in Arkansas with his family. - Atlanta Constitution.

A bird in the bush is worth two in the hand. In the new motto suggested to the Advertiser...

The yellow journal that peddles the destruction of the world by a couple should be severely punished. The Millerites ought to have a monopoly of these frightful disappointments.

It is not regarded as quite manly for a large, strong, rich man to wear a small, weak, poor man by the throat and compel him to pay on the spot for an act which the big man declares has injured him. Perhaps that is not high minded in a government. Nevertheless in Germany's virtual building of Bays we see not an altogether admirable example.

Six pretty girls are on a sabbath in a Trenton, New Jersey, church and from the plate basket. Presently these will be excused from the table and the girls will get no more than a few scraps of cutting its coupons. Yet there are still churches that insist on allowing on the part of the better half of their members, however much they may like, to be commanded to pay for their table.

Many a little pile carelessly taken by industry and economy is going to be lost in Alaska because men who are not to be trusted with the money have been entrusted with it. It is not a good thing to have a man who is not to be trusted with the money have a key to the door of the treasury.

The clergyman who, a few Sundays ago, whipped out a whip from behind his pulpit and brandished it before his flock, and another who during his sermon whipped a balance with his congregation, that drink in both worlds and debating, but they seem to have forgotten the rule of courtesy that such a man should observe.

The modern moralist who thinks of "business" as an unscrupulous earning for wealth may probably consider the events that recently occurred in New York within a single week in one case a pretentious who has been prosecuted, paid his share many thousands of dollars of the debt of a firm that failed in 1881. In the other a father volunteered to pay his bankrupt son's proportion of the very large liabilities of an insolvent partnership. These debts had already been respectively "discharged" by process of law. No moral obligation rested on the son, and the father's generosity was not his. But the sense of honor is higher and a finer thing than insolvency statutes, and it is well to be reminded that the force of the pressure of commercial conviction does not necessarily cease in old age.

OUT OF THE SEA

BY CLARA AUGUSTA

portance of the errand upon which he was going, for he gave no sign of weariness, but hurried on animatedly, as if he were a soldier on a march, and the horse sank in his tracks in the mud. Agnes drew rein at the first shiver she readed—a small, red hat in the heart of a dense pine forest. It was not a forbidden-looking place, and had her mind been less occupied, Agnes might have hesitated about seeking shelter there, but just now she was not thinking of danger to herself.

The tabernacle, an old man and woman, were as rude as their home. They gave her a grateful invitation to walk in, and led her to a shed at the rear of the house. She seated herself before the fire to dry her clothes, and the woman brought her a bowl of milk. The man now came in, and the woman frequently to the coals to watch Agnes as she dried. The look in Agnes' face was very suggestive of an arctic observer, but Agnes was so absorbed in her thoughts that she did not notice that she was being watched.

The second day after her return to consciousness they had to tell her all that had transpired. Lydia Graham had been rendered to prison for six days, at the end of which time he was again taken before his judge, and there received the sentence of death. It was to die by the hands of the executioner on the 25th day of December, between the hours of ten and two.

It was now the 25th of December, still fifteen days to his death. Agnes accompanied every one in the capacity with which she entered through the stable, and ten days afterward she took a short walk. On the morning of the eighteenth she came into the village-room and in her father's arms, and her mother both looked up at her in amazement. The calm resolution on her white face told them her father's death. "I am going to see something which nothing could turn back," she said. "I am going to see something which nothing could turn back," she said.

"I am going to see something which nothing could turn back," she said. "I am going to see something which nothing could turn back," she said. "I am going to see something which nothing could turn back," she said. "I am going to see something which nothing could turn back," she said.

By Night the Islands Belong to the Country—Every Political Party Has Favored Their Protection From Foreign Power.

To the Editor: American missionaries christened and civilized Hawaii. American enterprise developed the islands and crossed their wealth. For sixty years the United States has guarded and protected them, and during that period it has repeatedly notified other nations that it should regard any interference in the Sandwich Islands as an act of hostility and that it would not hesitate to use force to maintain its rights. The United States has repeatedly recognized its force. That ultimate annexation would be the result of this policy long continued has been well known, and the treaty now before the Senate is the third one which we have made. A policy so steady and so long settled, observed equally by all political parties, was not lightly undertaken but carefully sustained, and it brings with it the responsibility of final fulfillment. The time of that fulfillment has now come.

The importance of enormous importance to the United States from a military point of view. Examine the map and you will see that they are about equidistant from every point of the Pacific coast. The islands are the farthest Aleutian island to San Diego, and the Hawaiian Islands are the farthest from the Pacific coast. In case of war the Sandwich Islands would be to a source of weakness, because as many could probably attack them. So the people who make the islands are to be a source of weakness to our hands.
