General Averill's Strength.

The great political strength of General Averill is of the most tangible and enduring kind. It grows out of a multitude of good works, and has its foundation among the masses.

His highly enviable reputation as a honest, energetic and industrious man, his persistent efforts to improve the public, do not grow up mushroom-like from any particular brilliant, exciting act, that might be suspected as an advertising dodge, but from his nobleness of private as well as public character, his unflinching devotion to the best interests of all his constituents, and his unflinching devotion to the best interests of all his constituents.

His devotion has been evinced during his last term in Congress, in behalf of the poor struggling farmers throughout the extensive borders of the Great West. General Averill's great reputation as a public representative is by no means confined to our own State, for he could be upon his feet in any of our States, and there would not be the slightest quibble about party lines either. Our frontiers and the country settlers as a class are our most honorable and generous friends, and when in need they find a true friend in him. They support that friend at all hazards, and their support is not only abundant, but it is a support that is not easily shaken.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the people of this State are so loyal to him, and that they are so ready to support him in any of our States, and that they are so ready to support him in any of our States.

Gov. Miller's Address.

One of the richest treats of the campaign, in Brainerd, was the speech of Gov. Stephen Miller, on Wednesday evening last. At a seasonable hour, much the largest company of our citizens that has yet assembled on any occasion, congregated at the corner of Fifth and Front streets, in front of Dr. O'Leary's hardware store, and at half-past 7 o'clock Gov. Miller was introduced to the large and highly respectable audience. For an hour and a half the able and powerful speaker said the most eloquent and stirring words that have ever been heard in this city. He was supported by the frequent and tremendous applause of his hearers, as he strove manfully to lead into the coffin of dead Democracy. This meeting took place at the residence of the late Hon. J. T. Averill, our candidate for Congress, and the speaker was only interrupted by the frequent and tremendous applause of his hearers, as he strove manfully to lead into the coffin of dead Democracy.

Infant Murder.

Three Chippewa squaws, named Matka, Wares, and Red Warren, and Squaw-Jay, were brought to Brainerd last week and placed in jail to await an examination on a charge of infant murder.

The circumstances, as related to us, are as follows: The wife of Chas. T. Moore, residing at White River, was about being confined, and sent for her mother, a full or quarter-blood Chippewa, named Matka, who was a native of the same place.

GEN. JOHN T. AVERILL
A PART OF THE GOOD FREE PRESS SAID OF HIM.

Gen. John T. Averill, our noble candidate for election to Congress from this, the Third Congressional District, has been for some time the subject of hundreds of honestly, truthfully stated, kindly notices everywhere, a few of which we copy below. The statements they contain are literally true, and are on record to his honor. Let the listening mass, the pioneer, the tradesman, and everybody else, read what Gen. Averill has accomplished on the floor of Congress, and let his past life be a guide to the future that in future they will have in him a true, honest and devoted citizen, and walk up to the polls and vote accordingly—casting their votes for all former party connections.

Among the earnest friends of the working men in the House of Representatives, there is no one more entitled to our gratitude and confidence than Hon. John T. Averill, senior member from the State of Minnesota. His prayers and blessings of the monopoly people of our adopted State (Kansas) will follow him through life, for his efforts in behalf of the oppressed settlers of that State. As the friend of the settlers, we cheerfully recognize the valuable services he has rendered, and we congratulate our fellow-workmen of Minnesota on having a representative in Congress whose sympathies are in each perfect accord with those of the people—no one who so earnestly espouses the cause of the middle-class poor.

The working men of the country have never had a more faithful friend in Congress than John T. Averill, and we hope that by his district will see in the future a representative in that body who will continue the work of Kansas and appeal to the workmen of Minnesota, and ask for Mr. Averill their undivided support—(House staff communication).

"The impression made by Gen. John T. Averill was most favorable. He is a good man, he is a true man, without bombast, one of the people, and a worker who has few enemies in Congress. He has gained for himself many friends and votes by his short visit to our country."—(Alexandra Post.)

Gen. Averill's assistance in securing the right to the public land in the State of St. H. & P. Railroad the right to take land in odd sections, upon which they had settled, and to permit the railroad to take it step by step and secure improved farms, is a service that will not and cannot be forgotten, and deserves as well as recognition and gratitude for his services, and on the 15th of November next the gratitude that is felt will manifest itself in his favor by men of all parties, who, as the boys will unite in casting their votes for the honest, hard-working and true representative of the people. One good man on every spot, and the mass of voters in this District only wait the appointed day to return him to his services, and will be ready to uphold the rights and interests of those who send him there."—(Duluth County Correspondent South Centre Herald.)

John T. Averill, our noble Member of Congress, spoke briefly and to the point. He reviewed the history of the Republican party, its triumphs and achievements, though it carried the country safe through the storm-clouds of war, and through all the succeeding years in continued prosperity without financial convulsion or distress, and how she stands today in honorable peace with all the world, and through International and Homestead laws and Pacific Railroads is adding to the American name unending renown. Gen. Averill made us proud of his country. The people know and value his services, and his election is as sure as the coming of the 5th of November next."—(Glenwood Edge.)
