

City Lyrics.

Jewels and silks and costly lace,
Satin- and tulle and eyes ablaze.

Wide is the distance, the self beyond measure.
Between the woman without and within.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

The Origin of the Honey Bee.
The original home of the bee was no doubt tropical.

The female Humble bee collects the pollen and honey, and constructs the cells for the occupancy of her first brood.

We may reasonably suppose that the primitive honey bees did not inhabit cities, or hives, as in the tropics they are not necessary to their existence.

A colony of bees is perfect without any hive. In a natural cluster it is the office of a part of the bees, (the oldest)

It is not likely that the first bees either stored honey, or lived in large communities, as they do now, for there was no necessity for it.

Up to this time it is likely that all the inmates were perfect, and that they had the capacity of both depositing and working.

The Treatment of Young Hedges.

Of late years a discovery has been made in the treatment of young hedges, of supreme importance. It was the universal advice, and the general practice, to cut the plants to the ground at planting and to keep them that way.

Many who kept to the old custom of cutting the hedges to the ground, found to their sorrow that with all their labor there would be holes which would admit dogs, and in time larger animals; and only those who had knowledge and skill enough, and time enough to look to work well after their hedges, kept on with this way of making them.

The plashing system followed this. In this way the plants were allowed to grow straight up for three or four years after planting, and then each one cut half through near the ground and left over.

The new plan was foreshadowed in a speech by the agricultural editor of the Press at Harrisburg some six years ago, and of which an abstract is given in Pennsylvania Fruit Growers' Society's report.

An Incident at Sturgeon's Church. Mr. M. D. Conway relates the following incident at Mr. Spurgeon's church, in London: "Just before the services, two distinguished Americans—Bostonians—one a former official and intimate friend of the late Daniel Webster, had been shown into a pew. Presently the pew opened, and in it sat a young man who was looking at the distinguished gentleman and lady who had been shown into the pew. The two Americans complied, and beheld the gentleman and lady escorted to the vacant seats—both black as the ace of spades."

Points in a Good Bill.

Milk is a female product, and its production may reasonably be expected to be more or less affected if the organization varies much from the characteristic peculiar to the sex.

When the digestive organs are relatively larger than the other viscera, they give depth and breadth to the abdomen, and a somewhat wedge-shaped form—the body tapering forward.

The large stomach and bowels mark a diathesis in which the fluids abound; condition, as will readily be understood, is favorable to the production of milk; and the depth and breadth of the thorax, indicate a large development and flow of blood, and vital influence to all parts surrounding and connected with the milk-producing vessels.

A good constitution is important. This may be judged of by the laxness of the hair and the brilliancy of the eyes and horns. Constitution depends mostly upon the heart and lungs, the size of which may be determined by the depth and breadth of the thorax.

The female Humble bee collects the pollen and honey, and constructs the cells for the occupancy of her first brood, composed of the Humble bee, (Bumble) and by the Hornet (Vespa) and by a number of other species of hymenopterous insects.

The capacity of the lungs corresponds with the size of the aperture through which they are filled. Large open nostrils indicate large lungs, and vice versa. In the same way the indications of the mouth correspond with the size of the stomach.

The Udder and Esctcheon. The udder should be large and capacious. It need not be fleshy. It should be broad and reach well forward.

The flow of blood to and from the udder helps to determine the inclination to secrete milk. The arteries which supply the milk vessels with blood reach the bag inside, and run externally, but having supplied those organs with blood, they pass through the udder and ramify on the surface above and outside of the bag, turning the hair in the direction in which they run, upwards and outwards, forming the esctcheon of Guenon.

The size of the esctcheon is regarded as the measure of the quantity of blood supplied to the milk-producing vessels, and is evidence of their capability of elaborating milk. In the same way the veins take up the blood forming the milk in the milk veins, which pass through the bag and along the body, and enter the body through one or more holes on their way to the heart.

Soft, fine hair is by many regarded as an evidence of richness, and often than otherwise it proves true. But some cows that give the very richest milk have the appearance of the skin harsh. The appearance of the skin is a guide. A clear, white, or pale skin is an evidence, either that yellow fat is not formed, or if formed, the peculiarities of the animal are such that it is used up in supporting respiration.

Woman's Rights. One of the undoubted rights of a married woman is to be protected by her husband from the chances of future dependence, or the loss of her property.

The fat of animals is stored in a network of cells, called cellular tissue, and an abundance of these cells is coupled with a tendency to form fat wherever it fills them.

Mr. PASTORON says he can't see why ladies should put trimming on their riding coats. It's bad enough, he says, to embroider blankets for lap-dogs without dressing up goats.

The Paris Diamond Heist.

A curious anecdote is given by the London Standard of a Paris heist of precious stones amounting to a Paris to transit business, namely, at the Cafe des Varietes, Boulevard Montmartre. The following is an account of the last part of the article:

The two stones at each end are ancient and of the highest quality, belonging to the Countess de Fieschi, who has them still in France, formed part of a collection stolen at Venice in 1894 from Mme. Morosini; the necklace afterward belonged to Lady Temple, whose husband bought it at Caen.

ONE NEW YORK LETTER

New York, September 12, 1873. A WHOLESALE FRIGHT. It was lucky for the dwellers in crowded parts of our city that the pestilence threatened his approach.

AMERICAN JOURNALS AT VIENNA. The medal for merit, the only one to be awarded in group XXVI, (education, teaching and instruction), covering the whole field of education and periodical literature at the Vienna Exposition, has been awarded to the "Collection of Periodical Literature of America," brought together and exhibited in the Austrian capital by Mr. E. Steigel, of this city.

A WARNING TO BRIDES VISITING EUROPE. The Troussain of a young Austrian bride was seized by the custom house officials, a few days since, and confiscated for non-payment of duty.

PERSONAL AND FASHIONABLE ITEMS. Reception and evening dresses are for the fall style made long; but young ladies' dancing dresses, we are glad to see, are of a reasonable length;

One of our most enthusiastic and worthy church members is so unfortunate as to be barfed on the top of his head—which is rather uncomfortable.

H. M. ATKINS, ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW, PRINCETON, MINN. Will practice in any of the Courts of the State.

RESOLVED, by the Common Council of the City of Brainerd, that sidewalks be constructed on the south side of Front Street from Third to Fifth Street, of good material, not less than twelve (12) feet wide, with not less than four (4) sills or sleepers to be covered with oak or pine planks not less than two (2) inches thick; to conform to the grade established by the City Surveyor, all to be done at the proper cost and charge of the owners of lots, said walks to be built within thirty days after the passage of this resolution, and that the Street Commissioner be and he hereby is directed to notify all said owners to complete said walks within the time herein specified.

Passed September, 1873. Attest: E. S. DOUGLASS, City Recorder. H. D. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

THE PLATFORM.

Resolved, First, That the Republican party continues to be the first party of progress and reform; that while pledging itself anew to the great principles of universal freedom and equal rights with which it has triumphed in the past, and which it has permanently incorporated in Government, State and National; it meets boldly new questions as they arise in the spirit of devotion to the rights of the people, irrespective of class or condition, and that it presents the first example of a great party, wise and just enough to correct its own errors and abuses.

Second, That whereas the Republican party has ever been the tried friend of the oppressed—securing freedom for the slave, giving a home to the landless, obtaining from European countries a recognition of citizenship here for adopted citizens—it now greets with hearty sympathy and an extended hand every movement to secure to agriculture and labor their due influence, interest and rights.

Third, The producing, commercial and industrial interests of the country should have the best and cheapest modes of transportation possible, and while capital invested in such means of transit, whether by railroad or otherwise, should be permitted the right of reasonable remuneration; all abuse in their management, excessive rates, unjust and oppressive discriminations against localities, persons or interests, should be corrected by law, and the people should be protected from such wrongs and all improper and arbitrary use of the growing power of railroad and other corporations.

Fourth, That in our opinion, no rights should be vested in railroad corporations beyond the control of future legislation, and that such laws should be enacted as will limit to just and reasonable rates all tolls, freights and charges of railroad transportation companies, and protect the people from imposition, and that the Legislature should attach such conditions to all new grants and amendments or extensions of old charters, as will place the rights of legislative control over such corporations beyond all question.

Fifth, That we heartily applaud the active measures of the late Congress in ferreting out and exposing corruption. We have seen with profound regret, in the developments made therein, evidence of official and political corruption and the use abuse of public power by men of all political parties to further personal ends, and we deplore pure social conduct and the punishment of unfaithful public men, State and National, who have betrayed the confidence freely extended to them, shall not be shielded from disgrace by any participation of ours, and we denounce all Credit Mobilier transactions whatever be their form.

Sixth, When retrenchment is required to lighten the burden of taxation and to continue the reduction of the public debt, an increase of salaries is unwise. We condemn without reserve the voting for or receiving of an increased pay for services already rendered, and demand that the provisions of the late act of Congress by which the salaries were increased should be promptly and unconditionally repealed.

Seventh, That the wise, patriotic and efficient administration of Gov. Horace Austin entitles him to the unequalled approbation of the people of the whole State. That the able and faithful discharge of the responsible duties of the office of Attorney General by the Hon. F. R. Cornell merit the highest public commendation.

Eighth, That we heartily endorse the action of the late Legislature in investigating and returning the status in the office of State Treasurer.

Ninth, That in view of the recent decision of the Land Department at Washington in favor of certain railroad companies, and the large sums of money paid by a portion of the public lands in this State, whereby great injury and suffering is likely to result to such settlers, this Convention earnestly requests action on the part of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, as shall secure the honest settler against any loss and injury as far as possible.
