THE JUDGESHIP.
September 17th, at Brainerd, will be decided who the candidate for Judge of this Eleventh Judicial District will be. We hear of but two, prominently mentioned for the responsible position—Judge Stearns, and C. B. Sleeper, Esq. Both these gentlemen are excellent citizens and lawyers of respectability, and would make faithful and impartial officers. What their relative strength is for the position, we do not know; they, themselves, however, probably do know, and each have their friends. We doubt not Mr. Sleeper will be supported by the delegation from his own County, and probably by several of the delegations from the west; and as they are both well known in the communities interested, we do not purpose estimating one of these gentlemen above the other, in a commendatory article; but, as seems to us becoming, when considering the character of the office to be filled, and our respect for both candidates, we rather leave the matter to be decided by an intelligent people, after this simple introduction of our own citizen, and the highly respectable character of his claims to that or any other position he may seek.

Some pretentious fowl, under the nom de plume of Avis, chatters occasionally for the St. Paul Press, and claims to hail from somewhere along the line of the Northern Pacific. His whereabouts are very indefinitely indicated, and it is a good thing for all concerned that such is the case, probably. Avis is an interesting chicken. He talks as glibly as a magpie, and just about as coherently. He gives the truth a wide berth throughout the length and breadth of his insane drivellings, and affects to tear his hair over the slim prospects of that incorruptible patriot—Gen. Jno. T. Averill. We would advise Avis to put a poultice on his bump of veracity, and avoid undue excitement for a while. His case seems a hopeless one. Still there may be a little show of his being restored to society again.

In last week's TRIBUNE, under the heading of "Information wanted," was published a notice of Mrs. Catherine Thornton inquiring after the whereabouts of her husband, Mr. Patrick Thornton. We clip the following item upon the same subject from the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening:
"On April 6th, this year, Patrick Thornton left his residence on duPont's Banks, near this city, in company with Patrick Gorman; to seek a home in the West, leaving his wife and two children here until he could determine upon a place to settle.
His wife received a letter from him about two weeks after dated Brainerd, Crow Wing county, Minn., telling her to send him money to return as he did not like the country. She sent some money to him by express, but it was returned as no such person could be found. Since then no word has been received from him. Gorman returned some weeks ago and reported leaving Thornton in the West on account of a scarcity of money.
Since then no word or any information concerning Thornton has been received, and his wife is naturally very much worried, thinking that he has been foully dealt with. Any information concerning him will be thankfully received by his wife, Catharine Thornton, Henry Clay P. O. Del.

The people of Hawley and vicinity held an anti-grasshopper Convention on the 7th inst., and amongst other things passed the following resolution:
RESOLVED, That fall prairie fires should be prevented by all reasonable means in our power; that they may be burned by concert of action on some appointed day next spring, soon after the young brood of grasshoppers are hatched.

The St. Paul Type Foundry has been removed into new and commodious quarters—a door or two only from its old place at 50, Robert street—and has doubled its facilities for doing all kinds of first-class foundry work, and has also greatly increased its stock of types, presses, and other printers' goods. We are glad to note this evidence of prosperity on the part of a home institution. This establishment is fast working up to a position where it can supply all printers of the Northwest with everything they need, at best rates. We hope the publishers of the State will encourage the St. Paul Type Foundry in every possible way, as Mr. Miller, its President, is a worthy gentleman, a thoroughly practical man, and is most deserving of support for his indefatigable labors in striving to build it up to a first class foundry, and supply headquarters.

DETROIT ITEMS.
A man for breakfast every morning. The fall fights have commenced unusually early, and with an activity and earnestness that promises well. Either butcher knives, cleavers, stones or mop-sticks, for two, have been ordered on three different occasions during the past few days; only one of the rows, however, resulted in any injuries of a serious nature. These little "complacencies," however, are only gotten up to keep even with the Carolinians in their war of races.
Politics, Congressionally speaking, is steady. Everybody is for William King of this district. Considerable anxiety is felt as to the result of our Legislative convention, to which we may refer next week.
The dulcet strains of the frisky little hopple-grass are not making so much music on the "pear" as they have been previously before. They have gone—well, they have gone away—that is, some of them have. We think most likely, they have "laid" themselves away, for our next year's benefit. The blessed little songsters!

Harvesting is progressing nicely, with a good yield of wheat. Oats have been badly damaged by the grasshoppers. Corn and potatoes promise well.
We have a new landlord at the Wilson House. Mr. Whipple, well known along the N. P., took charge of that popular house, on Monday. More of the house and its new management, hereafter.

The editor of the Perham paper called on us yesterday. He told us about a very interesting game of base ball the Perham boys had been playing, but we are not going to say anything about it, because Burke said, it was played on Sunday, and we don't want to let that.

Mr. Gatchell, Attorney, &c., at Wadena, and Mr. McCrea, of Perham, were in town yesterday.
Yours, A. J. C.

MOOSE LAKE.—This is the name of an ancient town on the Lake Superior & Mississippi Railroad, and we briefly alluded to it a year ago. When or by whom this ancient town was founded we know not—we found it last week. We only know it is ancient because it looks so; it is a place of great interest, because during its palmy days it was occupied by Finlanders—for one night only. A Northern Pacific agent besieged it on the very day of their occupation of the place, so tradition tells us, and cabbaged the whole outfit, including ponies and camp-kettles. As the legend goes this, Alexandrian agent told them that they were his, and packed them all off to the Park Region somewhere, where he gave into them fine lands in exchange for notes or the equivalent thereof—

Now, when the L. S. & M. governors and high priests heard of this thing they waxed exceeding wrath, and said in their counsels that this thing could not be—this was, nevertheless. From that time, through all the ages following, Moose Lake, was only the abiding place of Gypsies, Bedouins and Arabs, with a sprinkling of Chipewas. Like Danassus, Moose Lake was a wonderful spot—the more so with those "versed" in ancient history (profane, not sacred). The profanity that was worked up at the time of its vacation by the Finlanders, alone, makes several large volumes, and this is the first swearing on record that was done by note. The castles of Moose Lake are not numerous but are full of interest to any one fond of the study of ancient architecture. The mildewed specimens of the fine arts, by the old masters, still remaining, are also productive of pleasing reflections; while the date groves round about, composed of scrub oak, jack pine, box elder and choke-cherry trees, are still the beautiful protectors of the weary traveler from the rays of a tropical sun. There is some talk that it is probable, even during the present century, that a colony will be induced to go there and snatch Moose Lake from the grasp of decay, and again reconstitute the site to a flourishing kingdom by means of modern appliances; but no Finlanders need apply, unless they believe hung up by the gills. The Jews will probably rally to this point about the time they expect the coming of their Anticipated. Tourists and travelers will do well to "take in" Moose Lake, as they go.

The gentlemen on a train the other morning congregated in the second class or smoking car to enjoy their cigars, but were considerably nonplussed to find a second class passenger in the car, in the person of a venerable old lady. Of course they were too true to the instincts of gentlemen to offend a lady, and an aged lady at that, and their dilemma was rather a severe trial. So they hawked a little, spit mickles some, stuck their heads out of the window, commented on the flowers, and in many innocent little ways endeavored to disburse their minds of the thoughts of it. After suffering a great number of agonies for an hour, what was their joy and surprise to see the old lady haul out of her "XXX Family" reticule a most healthy looking pipe and after loading it to the brim with cavendish, set up one of the most fearful and strongest tobacco smudges on record. The gentlemen, en masse, lit their Habanas and the smoked with all their might and strength, which they had to do in self defense.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The Board of Education have employed a gentleman from Canada—Mr. G. B. Davis—as principal of the Brainerd public schools, and his department, the upper branch, will open a full term on Monday, of four months; terminating Thursday, Dec. 24th. The lower grade will also commence in a few days, or just as soon as a lady teacher from the Normal School can be procured; probably as soon as a week from Monday. All scholars who wish to attend, that have been reading in the Third reader, or above that grade, are requested to meet at the public school building on Monday morning next, at 9 o'clock, that Mr. Davis, with Superintendent Holland, may make up the upper, department, and commence "business." Those below that grade will wait a few days, until the other teacher arrives, when all will receive the advantages of a first class school. The Board have determined to have just as good schools as they have anywhere, and we feel sure they will be supported by the people in their efforts to make our schools hereafter what they ought to be. The Board esteems that in securing the services of Mr. Davis, they have secured a teacher, as Principal, who is thoroughly competent, and an enterprising, energetic gentleman, who will come fully up to the desired standard as a principal teacher.

N. B.—Since the above was in type Mr. Davis has requested that ALL the scholars in the District shall attend school on Monday, for the purpose of being properly graded for the different Departments, and that they shall also bring their books with them.

BIG CABBAGE.—We were the recipient of a mammoth head of cabbage, on Monday of this week, from the garden of Mrs. Mary Bishop, of Elm River, Dakota. We have a weakness for cabbage, and Mrs. B. could not have touched us in a tenderer place than by making the presentation she did. This bulbous prodigy weighed eight pounds when it was cut from the stock, and had only been growing three months. Mrs. B. also sent us some monster potatoes, whose proportions were so attractive that an unknown party spirited them away before they reached us, although they were in the watchful care of our good friend, Edward Fawley, of this place. The Elm River country is very rich and productive, as these splendid specimens well attest. Thanks.

Who lives with soul so dead,
That hark'st remarked, and said,
When a man has not e'en a red,
He'd better get it—or go plumb dead.
We have slept on it, since receiving the first news, and are a little cooler now; so much cooler, that we have determined to wait till spring and then hire Custer to take us out—if he will wait for his pay till after we get there.

It is characteristic of the modern American to believe every man guilty, who may be arraigned for misdemeanors and crimes, until he proves himself innocent. When E. P. Smith was charged with swindling in Indian pine, he was pursued with intense malignity until his honesty was established beyond question. Even when Stanley discovered Livingstone he was branded as an impostor until subsequent events sustained the genuineness of his claims. In the late Beecher investigation, the great Brooklyn preacher has been blackened with all the muck that could be heaped upon him, although the present status of the examination points to his complete vindication. Isn't there room for improvement in this direction!

We had a most jolly visit with that prince among jolly fellows, Frank Daggett, of the Litchfield News-Ledger, the other day, while at St. Paul. Frank is nearly as fat as usual, but just a rattling good fellow, nevertheless. He only weighs 347 this summer, having lost considerable flesh during the hot term; but still he is comfortably corpulent. He promises to visit the Northern Pacific this fall (which we trust he will do) and we volunteered to procure special rates for all "over-freight" on him, of the N. P. Company. To save the risk of straining the passenger coaches we got Frank to agree to ride straddle of the locomotive; and he hopes to pay his fare, partially at least, by ringing the bell at stations, looking out for cattle and advertising the climate of this State by his presence among the immigrants coming over the road.

Our genial friend, Mr. Wm. Murphy, has returned from market with an addition to his usually select stock of goods.

OUT WEST.
VISIT TO AUDUBON.—We paid a visit to Audubon on Saturday last. Found the place quiet and the people well. Some were disheartened over the late visit of the grasshoppers. The farmers were in the midst of harvest.—The crops this year are reasonably good. The wheat looks quite well, and has been but little damaged by the locusts.

The grasshopper invasion is the principal topic of conversation among the people, and they are pretty well versed in the habits of these pestiferous insects. A scourge, similar to the present one, was sent upon the country during the fall of 1871. The grasshoppers that season deposited their eggs, which hatched out, the following spring, in great numbers.—The crops of 1872 were nearly all eaten up by them. The young hoppers remained until the 28th of July that year before they were large enough to fly. When they attained their full growth they suddenly left the country.

They came this summer in greater numbers than before. Next spring, in all probability, countless myriads will hatch out, in the section we speak of; and it will be useless to put in crops. We think from what we learned that there will be but little sowing done. Some persons are veridical enough to believe that the eggs which have been deposited of late will hatch out the present fall. All such foolish hopes as soon as possible. The only show of diminishing the plague will be by burning up the filthy creatures after they are hatched next spring. If the prairies are kept from burning until that time, a united effort on the part of the people may effect a perceptible riddance of them. To say that the prospects are gloomy but expresses the true condition of affairs. The people must depend more on stock-raising hereafter. In that they can succeed, grasshoppers or no grasshoppers.

Audubon is likely to lose the White Earth travel, from the fact that the new Agency road between the N. P. R. R. and Red Lake, is to run from Detroit, instead of Audubon, as had been talked. This will effect the place materially, and especially the stores and hotels.

An accident happened to some land lubbers on Lake Audubon last week, while the same were taking a sail.—The boat in which they were cruising went over on her side, by some means or other, (a squall, probably,) and the occupants thereof were unceremoniously tumbled out into the water.—They clung to the side of the boat, however, and yelled for help. Assistance was soon rendered them, and they restored to dry land in a somewhat dilapidated state. They are as adventurous as ever, though, and have been out several times since. They find there is no particular danger, as the craft cannot sink anyway.

H. J. Larson is building a commodious barn for the accommodation of the traveling public. The Journal made its appearance last week. We hope it will be continued, as we feel a somewhat fatherly interest in its welfare. We are promised Audubon items hereafter by a regular correspondent.

The prairie chickens about the place are said to be plentiful. They are "ripe" now, and it is perfectly lawful to bag them. Wild ducks are also abundant.

Whenever we can, we like to go up that way to feast our eyes on the beautiful prairies and picturesque groves that environ the place. There are few prettier places, in our mind, than Audubon and the surrounding country. Had it not been for these attractive features we would have "emigrated" long since. Such natural beauty was not fashioned in vain, either.

APPOINTMENTS.—The Board of Education have filled the two vacancies that have occurred among their number, (by the death of Mr. E. B. Lynde, and the resignation of L. B. Perry, Esq.) by appointing W. H. Tull, and W. M. Falconer. The Board is now composed as follows:
C. B. Sleeper, President.
L. P. White, Treasurer.
M. C. Russell, Clerk.
W. H. Leland.
W. M. Falconer.
W. H. Tull.

Mr. Perry has been the efficient and industrious Clerk, from the organization of the District, and it was with great regret that the Board received his resignation, made necessary by his intended removal.
A son of our old friend, Dr. Thomas Foster, was drowned on Sunday evening last, while sailing in the Bay at Duluth. He was a young man, was out in the boat alone when it was struck and capsize by a sudden squall of wind, and the boat being ballasted with rock went to the bottom, and the unfortunate young man perished.

Our immediate neighbor, W. W. Hartley, Esq., is rushing the Real Estate and Insurance business in a lively manner.

"YELLOW" FEVER.
OFF FOR THE "HILLS."—These stories that are coming from the Black Hills, via Custer's expedition, are villainously calculated to shock the desires of a nervous person; the reports are bad with us. We scanned the telegrams that said all the soldiers on the expedition had a knapsack each chock full of the pure stuff; and were returning as millionaires, and some of them two millionaires apiece, and the thing literally set us on fire—wild fire at that. We are not a bit greedy either; a dollar and six hits ahead at any one-time always satisfied us to entire repletion; and whenever we kept our raising in view, that amount was sure to run us in the luxuries of life at least two months. But when the telegraph wires went on talking about common soldiers having a million or so of the pure article in their pants-pocket for spending money the thing unshipped the radder of our reason without delay. We acknowledge to having been excited—very much discomfitted on the point of enlarging our customary dollar and seventy-five-cents, and we went home to our humble cottage in an animated condition that was truly praiseworthy. Our folks noticed something out of the usual order with us, but we only answered their anxious inquiries after our health, at first, by saying that our constitution was evidently about to pass through a change naturally to be expected as a man passed from the third to the fourth decade of life; and we thought we had slipped an eccentric in our history that very day. They all looked at each other, and at their protector but said nothing, and fearing they might mistake our joy for madness, we told them what was the matter; that Custer had found gold in paying quantities; the Black Hills was yellow with it; every soldier was bringing back a ton of it in his knapsack; that we had the yellow fever, and was going to go out for some of that right off; we read the telegrams, stood up from the table and told them just how it was and what was the matter; that (by) thing of humbugging along through life on two dollars a year in advance had become fearfully "played," and asked our better half "wouldn't she get by shirt ironed and do us up a lunch by six o'clock the next morning." Amid her amazement she said something about our head-being turned with excitement and referred to Indians on the route. We told her amid the wildest gesticulations, "dog on the Indians! gold was the thing," and that if our head was turned clear around, so much the better, as we intended to arm ourself with a mountain howitzer lashed on the back of a mule, muzzled to the mule's rear, and as we desired both the month of the piece and our face to be set toward the enemy, as we crossed his domain, it was extremely fortunate our face was turned, as we would necessarily have to ride the animal backwards so as to have the howitzer in perpetual position. We acknowledge being somewhat excited on the topic of Black Hills, and gold and things, but

THREE cities worth mentioning.—City of the past—Moose Lake. City of the present—Minesopolis. City of the future—Brainerd.
The grasshoppers were moving to the southeast in countless myriads on Monday. We hope they will all drift into the great lakes, and make a feast for the fishes.
We received a brief call from friend O. A. Boe, Treasurer of Becker county, on Monday, of this week, who became a subscriber to our great family journal of North America.
QUITE a numerous working force has been engaged, during the present week, in grading the streets, under the personal supervision of Mayor White. This looks like business.
A TREAT.—Some kind and thoughtful Audubonian, who signs himself "L," has expressed us several fine wild ducks, in good condition, for which he will please accept our thanks.

If the Moorhead Base Ball Club are certain that they can beat our Brainerd Club three to one, we volunteer the assertion that the chance is wide open at any time to prove it, so-to other folks. Put up, or "dry," now.

SOME of these days we may see a notice something like this, in the columns of the city papers: "Wanted, by a man of practical experience, the position of a 'hiringling' Address, J. A. W., formerly of the St. Paul Press.

We saw a man (man, by courtesy) the other day who wore two of his finger nails at least one and a half inches in length. We should dislike to have him get his fingers into our pie. Quire did God ever make anything it vain!

GOOD POSITION.—His many friends here will be glad to learn that B. L. Perry, Esq., formerly of Brainerd, but now of Minneapolis, has been called to a good position on the L. S. & M. Railroad. He will fill it with credit to himself and profit to the Company.

CAUTION.—When you travel, don't spend your wealth in "setting up the drinks" too much for the boys, and then you can always afford to eat your regular meals, even if they do cost twenty-five cents each. Never tickle your palate at the expense of your stomach.

WINE at St. Paul, the other day, we met six "hiringlings." They all expressed the same opinion—that a certain institution in Minnesota would be glad to get the position of a "hiringling" in less than five years, but that there would be no one to hire it, at any price.

OUR MASONIC LODGE at Brainerd—Anora Lodge No. 100—has raised among its members the sum of seventy dollars and forwarded it to Hon. J. F. Daniels, D. D. G. M., Fairmount, Martin County, to be added to the Masonic Fund, for the relief of their destitute brethren in the region devastated by grasshoppers.

THE PINE CRY NEWS has also become a double-header. Mr. Robie has associated with him Mr. James Hughes, a practical man, and an old friend and army comrade of ourself—and we have served together in Company "K," Second Minnesota Infantry. We wish the boys every good thing of life, as they are deserving young men.

WIKEN we see a neatly dressed, intelligent looking lady, traveling in the cars, and occupying her time in knitting stockings—surrounded by a score of other ladies engaged in all kinds of frivolity, for pastime—we kind o' chalk her down as one of God's noble women, who was left at the time of the apparent general destruction of that class.

We received a pleasant call from Hon. C. B. Jordan, on Monday of this week, who still resides at Wadena, notwithstanding his appointment as Register of the Fargo Land Office. He was in town on business. We learn from him that the Land Office at Fargo will be open for the transaction of business on the first of next month. Judge Potter has been re-elected as Receiver, and a Mr. Pugh, of Mankato, takes his place.

Brainerd Tribune.

First-story, as the hemlock said to the fir, but spruce up and be poplar all-der while.

We slept with Judge Macdonald, at the Merchants Hotel, in St. Paul, the other night. J. L. resides at Shakopee, and is the "opposition" candidate for the Congressional nomination in the Second District. We expected he would be so big, in view of the "coming honor," that he would stick out at both ends of the bed; but no, he just humped up and "snooped" with us the same as though nothing was going to happen.

We met Col. Feller, of Duluth, the other day, and— we presume because somebody was defeated in that city recently—he was actually on a train; that is, we mean to say he was on a railroad train, going down to St. Paul to get a little country air, like. Seriously, however, the Colonel is a most pleasant and accomplished gentleman, and bears the defeat of his side, so to speak, with remarkable grace.

CAPTAIN —, who was going off on the early train the other morning, thought to shake his thirst before he went. No saloon being open, he broke the lock of a rear door on a saloon on the corner, and went in and slaked the prevailing drought within him, and then departed—thinking to make it all right when he came to town again. But papers were got out and sent after the Captain. When we last heard of the case he was trying to laugh the sheriff out of the notion.

THEY ARE HERE.—Mr. C. Jaichner, has just returned from below, and has brought with him the best stock of cloths, and tailor's trimmings ever introduced on to the Northern Pacific. Mr. Jaichner is an accomplished man in his business, and can now fit out our citizens for the fall and winter in the best style, with suits made from first class and reliable goods. Go and get measured. Mr. Jaichner has secured the services of Mr. H. W. Addison, as cutter, for his shop, which is said to be one of the best cutters in the Northwest.

List of Lands and Town Lots

In the County of Crow Wing, and State of Minnesota, upon which Taxes are Delinquent and Unpaid, on this 3d day of August, 1874.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, ss. District Court, County of Crow Wing, 11th Judicial District. The State of Minnesota: To all persons or corporations who have or claim any estate, right, title or interest in, or claim to, or lien upon any of the several pieces or parcels of land in the list hereto attached described.

Table with columns: OWNER, DESCRIPTION, SECTION, ACRES, 1871, 1872, 1873, 1874, TOTAL. Lists various land parcels and owners such as Davis, Deak & Co., Heiler Gilman, etc.

A Most Deserving Establishment.

The Minnesota Daily Tribune establishment, we are pleased to say from our own knowledge, is one of the most complete printing and publishing houses in the western States at the present time. Its jobbing department, its bindery and blank book manufactory, as well as the newspaper department (which latter gives daily evidence, to all of its superiority) are perfect models, and not the slightest item seems wanting to turn out the very finest and most substantial work in the printing art.
