DR. STEWART, We wonder if Dr. Stewart is supported by the "Pine Land Ring" of Minnesota.

Whitney, Esq., which the Brainerd Tribune has been making so much fuss over.

Mr. Whitney is a Democrat, and the last few lines simply alluded to the chance Mr. McNair had of election.

This is all we have claimed against that faction, admitted by its own "organ" (!), but we did not know before to whom any of these letters were addressed.

Compare the above, if you please, with Mr. Whitney's statement to us, which he came all the way from Minneapolis to make in such stentorian tones—that he "was only joking."

Mr. Whitney is a Democrat. Then we should like to know what business he had running around over the district manipulating Republican caucus and wire-pulling with Republicans to put up a Republican convention for Dr. Butler.

That smacks a good deal of the Clay county job and deserved to be denounced by the Republicans, as it was. The fact is, Mr. Whitney is, and was then, in the employ of Dr. Butler.

1776 CENTENNIAL, 1876 Republican Ticket.

For President, GOV. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES, Of Ohio.

For Vice-President, MON. WILLIAM A. WHEELER, Of New York.

For Member of Congress, DR. J. H. STEWART, Of St. Paul.

The Situation, The present aspect of the political horizon is extremely flattering, and indicates the greatest, most complete Republican victory, in the present campaign.

The Democracy, the great reform party that has been seeking to delude the people with the false cry of "Tilden and Reform," has been so completely exposed that the unanswerable nature of the charges of perjury and theft made against Tilden has driven them to desperation.

With the insane wildness of the drowning man grasping a straw, they clutched at the bubble of revenge, and hurled a boomerang into the Republican camp, aimed at President Hayes that has already returned with unerring certainty, dealing its originators a blow fairly between the eyes that is at once fatal to the hydra-headed monster that has been flustering itself with the belief that victory, power, pelf and spoils lay within its reach.

Satisfied that they could not successfully answer the charges of fraud against their standard-bearer, and that all attempts in that direction would only sink him deeper in the mire of corruption, they have sought to utilize their peculiar characteristic of perjury and lies to blacken their opponent and drag the fair name and fame of President Hayes down to, or, if possible, below the disgraceful position that Tilden occupies.

They accordingly manufactured a code of charges against him, consisting not only of perjury, but of larceny, and even murder; and, we presume, of that elastic nature calculated to be stretched at will by the visionary and unscrupulous mind of the Chicago Times' Fremont correspondent, to cover the whole statute of frauds, or any crime known to the law, and it is not known to what extent it would have been carried, had not President Hayes so promptly probed their bubble and exploded the scheme with his complete denial and overwhelming proof.

This frantic manoeuvre of the Democracy is a clincher, however, on the charges against Tilden, because it tacitly admits them to be true and unanswerable, and it falls harmlessly to the ground, stamped with the brand of improbability and falsehood from the first, because it charges too much.

At Duluth the other day we ran across an old fresh water "salt," who evidently appreciated the wisdom of "Salt" very highly, and was considerably "out of sorts" with everybody and everything else.

He was, to all appearances, very willing to talk whenever and as long as he could gain an audience, and was equally posted upon "any subject you could name," and had the same crochety, and, with all, sort of sourd views upon all.

A crowd had gathered about him and he was improving the blessed opportunity to talk. He had "owned a skunner once 'himsel'," but she went to the bottom of the lake, and he hadn't seen stamps enough to cover another skin.

He possessed a particular aptitude against Duluth and the Northern Pacific railroad. He said that "Duluth was a lively town until the Northern Pacific busted, and he was going to stay here a year or two until something turned up and he could get away, Duluth was bankrupt, the N. P. was bankrupt, and every body was bankrupt in the country."

We here considered it our duty to make a correction, and we edged through the crowd towards him (tell us, please, whose a reporter could not edge in the line of a plain duty), and watching an opportunity when "Salt" was taking breath, we took him "between wind and water," about as follows: "Stranger, we live on the Northern Pacific road, and feel quite an interest in its standing and its prospects, and will you be kind enough to give us your authority for saying it is bankrupt? Are your grounds in the facts that the Company owns over six hundred miles of the best road in the United States, in successful operation, and in excellent condition; well, say, boundlessly supplied with the finest rolling stock in the country, all in complete repair, and upon all of which it owes no man a dollar!"

Are they the facts that the road never was doing a better business and paying better dividends than to-day; that its last monthly exhibit shows its net profits for the month of July to be over forty-three thousand dollars, and that August will even exceed that sum? If so, and your grounds are similar for calling Duluth and every body here bankrupt, they certainly have reason to rejoice."

We pressed it, and for once his tongue, usually so lively, had lost its cunning, and he was speechless, and many of the Duluthians actually fell asleep through the unusual quiet.

If there are any others in this section who may be slightly given to "Salt," let them "remember Lot's wife."

Murder and Attempted Robbery at Northfield, Minn., at Midday, by Eight Armed Men.

Northfield, Minn., Sept. 7.—At 2 o'clock to-day, eight armed men, well mounted, entered the town and attacked the First National Bank with the intention of robbing it.

These entered the bank while the others stood guard, and springing over the counter, ordered the cashier, J. L. Hayward, with a knife at his throat, to open the vault.

This he refused to do, and was shot dead. They then turned to A. K. Bunker, the teller, and ordered him to open it.

He did not know the combination, when they started towards him, and he ran out the back door, receiving a shot in the shoulder as he went.

While this was transacting within the citizens without were doing good work. Two of the robbers were killed outright, one wounded, one horse killed, and one captured. They then escaped, taking the wounded man with them, and the citizens are in pursuit.

The first number of the Red River Democrat is before us. It is published simultaneously at Fargo, D. T., and Moorhead, Minn., and supports the lost cause of the perjurer Tilden and green-back Hendricks.

J. C. TERRY, jr., sup't of carriers, and G. C. Kelley, register clerk of the St. Paul post office, were arrested on Wednesday for opening letters and stealing money therefrom, and bound over to appear at the next term of court.

How Tweed Caught, MADRID, Sept. 8.—Wm. M. Tweed, and his cousin, Wm. Hunt, have been arrested in Fort Vigon, on board the Spanish merchantman Carman. Tweed was traveling under the name of "Secor." Both prisoners were lodged in the fortress.

The great Democratic-Tilden Reform party, has acknowledged its own sinfulness, that its standard-bearer has been a perjurer and a thief, stealing money from the public treasury, and that too, when it was most in need of every dollar, and now only hopes to succeed in the present campaign by making Hayes appear as black as Tilden.

We are not a prophet, nor the son of a prophet, but we will venture to predict that Hon. W. W. McNair will carry his Congressional District by over 5,000 majority. A great revolution has taken place in Northern Minnesota within the last two years. The people have had enough of a Republican congressman—Red River Democrat.

A miserable "venture," Bro. Barker, that it is unnecessary for you to prefix with an acknowledgement that you "are not a prophet or the son of a prophet." Your prediction stands about as much chance of being fulfilled as does the Dispatch's threadbare prediction that the perjurer Tilden will be elected.

I wrote you yesterday for Fort Pierre, since which time the party in pursuit of the Indians have returned. They succeeded in recapturing 170 of the horses and lost two men, Mr. Brown, the horse and at Deadwood, and one other. They were with twenty-three others in hot pursuit after the Indians, when one Indian by some means lost his horse and ran into a ravine and scotered himself in a small clump of bushes. Mr. Brown in trying to get a shot at him became exposed at short range and was shot dead. The other man stood near him and fell immediately after, killed by the same gun. The party found it too dangerous to approach where they laid, and left the field without recovering their bodies. They got them this morning, however, stripped of their clothing, valuables and guns. It is said that Brown had a fine gold watch and $200 in money at the time. These Indians have the finest kind of guns and are very skillful warriors. They are reported in large numbers all around us, and it is not unlikely they intend to attack our city. If they do we will make it as lively for them as we can. There has been but one Indian killed to the five white men that have bitten the dust yesterday and to-day.

Where to Fish for Trout on Lake Superior.

Colonel Graves, Hon. H. M. Rice and Frank Clark reached home on Tuesday from their fishing excursion on Nipigon river, down the north shore below Thunder Bay. They report that river to be a perfect paradise for the Isaac Walton, as the "speckled beauties" "abound there in such immense numbers that the hooks scarcely reach the water until they are grabbed up, and that in a very few hours it actually becomes labor instead of sport to haul the large, luscious trout out. Indeed, so monstrous is the quantity of exercise become, that after the first day the party caught but few fish more than was necessary to supply their wants. These gentlemen unite in recommending all those who wish to know what trout fishing in its perfection really is, to go down and drop their hooks in the Nipigon river—which stream, by the way, is considerably larger than the Mississippi at Brainerd, and whose waters are almost joy cold and as clear as crystal." [Duluth Tribune.]

LETTER FROM JOHN WHEATLAND, BRainerd, Minn.

It has been some time since I wrote you last, and I will pass over several thrilling events that have transpired with us to the death of the Montana who beheaded the Indian I wrote you of. He was shot by a white man and died in a few hours. The Indians seem to be gathering in large numbers about us, and their depredations are becoming more frequent.

On the evening of the 17th they killed the mail carrier from Fort Pierre, about eight miles from here, and took his horse and all the mail matter. On Thursday last a fine looking gentleman called on me and introduced himself as Rev. Mr. Smith, a Methodist clergyman, saying he wished to hold divine service in our new city if he could receive the proper encouragement. He desired to preach here and at Deadwood (about eight miles distant) alternately. It was finally arranged that he should preach his trial sermon to-day at 10 o'clock. Accordingly we all got on our clean shirts this morning and waited until 11 o'clock, when a messenger rode in with the news that the Rev. Mr. Smith was murdered, with his Bible in his hand, about three miles from town while on his way, on foot and alone, from Deadwood to preach the first sermon ever delivered in Crook City. The messenger also brought the tidings that the Indians had stolen the Montanas herd, consisting of two hundred and seventy horses. We organized a party and went out, thinking to intercept them as we had done before, but they had taken another route, and we failed to give them battle. Later in the day an Indian killed a white hunter while he was skinning a deer, and his comrade killed the Indian on the spot. At evening another dead body was brought in, supposed to be a haymaker, who had just been killed, making three white men to one Indian killed to-day, beside the mail carrier on Thursday. A few of the Montana men are still in pursuit of their herd, but I fear the result, as it is a very dark, rainy night. The mining interest don't seem to be as well represented as earlier in the season. No new placer diggings of any importance have been discovered of late. Some very rich quartz is being brought in daily, but I am not at all satisfied that it is anything more than a drift.

The country is overstocked with merchandise. I would advise people not to come here before next spring. Let the Government send out a few ministers and coax the Indians to be quiet and times will be better here.
