Of Ramsey County.

The Pioneer Press lies.

Bu'sted—the St. Cloud ring.

Bolting is a game all hands can play at. Beware.

The St. Paul Dispatch is enlarged to a nine column.

"Governor Gilman" sounds pretty well. Shake, Governor.

Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—it might have been."

In the language of the St. Paul Dispatch the TRIBUNE considers itself endorsed.

The grandest victory for the Northern part of the State ever known—the nomination of Hon. Charles A. Gilman for Lieutenant-Governor.

The Minnesota Republican platform appears in full in the proceedings of the State convention on our third page. We leave our readers to judge of its merits for themselves. We have not had time to digest it.

O. G. Wall is editor and proprietor of the Lanesboro Journal. Postmaster at Lanesboro owns a beautiful home and printing office at Lanesboro, has a stock farm in Martin county, is a capital fellow, and deserves all.

The Northern Pacific road is pushing right along. On the 13th ult the transfer boat carried the first loaded cars across the Missouri. The track is now laid for twenty-five miles beyond Bismarck and the grading is nearly finished for seventy miles.

A pretty good time now to agitate the removal of the St. Cloud land office to Brainerd. The ring is losing its grip. Stearns is a strongly democratic county, while Crow Wing is strongly Republican and Brainerd is the proper location, geographically anyhow, the business being all in the northern portion of the district. "A long pull, a strong pull and a pull all together" should be the motto in Brainerd.

Gen. Washburn has been advised that the third Congressional district is entitled to a cadet, and he is desirous of appointing some young man that will reflect credit upon the district. In order that no mistake may be made in this important matter, Mr. Washburn has appointed the following named gentlemen to examine candidates for the appointment: Gen. H. H. Sibley, St. Paul; Gen. R. W. Johnson, St. Paul; Prof. W. W. Folwell, of the State University; Col. H. G. Hicks, of Minneapolis; and Hon. Knute Nelson, of Alexandria. Applicants should file their petitions with Gen. Washburn, at Minneapolis, without delay.

A Lie Nailed.

Referring to the nomination of Hon. C. A. Gilman, on Tuesday last for Lieut.-Governor, the Pioneer Press says:

A few years ago, when he was a candidate for railroad commissioner, he was threatened with a public exposure of his record as register of the United States land office at St. Cloud. He very promptly made the discovery that he was constitutionally disqualified from holding any State office, by reason of the fact that he was then a State senator and that his term of office would not expire till a year following his contemplated induction into the office of railroad commissioner. He is in precisely the same position now. He is a member of the house of representatives and his term of office does not expire till 1881. The constitution expressly declares that "no senator or representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, hold any office under the authority of the United States or State of Minnesota, except that of postmaster." The prohibition is explicit and unqualified. There is no doubt among lawyers that Mr. Gilman is positively disqualified by this provision from holding the office for which he is a candidate.

In making these statements the Pioneer Press willfully and maliciously lies. The editor of the Pioneer Press has not forgotten and our readers will remember very well that Mr. Gilman withdrew as a candidate for railroad commissioner in 1875 because he was held by prominent attorneys to be ineligible, upon the ground that it was an office created by the Legislature while he was a member of that body, and the constitutional one year had not expired after its creation, (see last clause of Sec. 9, Art. 4 Constitution) and not upon the ground that it was a State office, as the Pioneer Press would make it appear. His office of legislator can be resigned at any time prior to his qualifying as lieutenant-governor in January next, and the Pioneer Press bug-bear is removed, if it has not already been done.

No lawyer of any reputation in the State will say that Mr. Gilman is ineligible to the office of lieut.-governor.

Governor Gilman's Home Reception

ST. CLOUD, Sept. 5.—The nomination of Hon. C. A. Gilman of this city for lieutenant-governor is the theme of universal comment here, and of universal congratulation, save among the members of the old ring. Those men are still sour and threatening. But there is nothing that succeeds like success. And Gilman's splendid victory in the State convention has added to his already large list of enthusiastic friends many who were mildly hostile, or non-committal. His strength and popularity was most signally demonstrated last evening. A reception was tendered him at the Central House, and he left the bedside of his sick wife to attend it for a brief period. Hundreds of his personal and political friends were assembled, and his arrival was greeted with enthusiastic cheers. Gov. Barto introduced Mr. Gilman to the assembled multitude, which extended a long distance up and down on the street, in a few eloquent and complimentary remarks, to which Mr. Gilman responded.

Gilman and the Ring.

St. Paul Globe (Dem.)

The Minneapolis morning paper, which is printed in St. Paul, bolts the nomination of Charley Gilman for Lieutenant-Governor while it cordially supports Pillsbury and the remainder of the ring. The Globe has no sympathy to waste on Gilman. He has chosen to fight his battles inside of the Republican ranks and must expect to receive the virulent abuse of his party organ. All of this can easily be accounted for. Gilman is fighting a gang which is the worst ring in the State. It double discounts any ring of St. Paul or Minneapolis, and Gilman is the only man in his own party with pluck enough to fight them. Of course he must be punished for such temerity and the organ of all the rings and all the rascalities for which Minnesota is noted bolts his nomination. This is really the highest compliment which could be paid to Gilman. We had been inclined to believe that Gilman was a pretty bad case, but Joe Wheelock's bolt will be the making of the man. When a notorious corruptionist like Wheelock denounces a man, the people are inclined to think there is something angelic about the person abused. Gilman can be thankful for abuse from such a source.

The Great Lone Land.

It will startle a good many in the first place to be suddenly reminded that the actual area of the Hudson's Territory now annexed to the dominion of Canada, is greater than that of the United States. In the second place it will surprise a good many more people to learn that in North-Western Canada, the wheat yields more than doubles that of Minnesota, and trebles that of Pennsylvania and Ohio. In the third place it will interest political economists deeply to be told that within a few years the Winnipeg watershed of North-Western Canada alone may be reasonably expected to be thrown into the commerce of the New World with the Old an annual wheat yield equal to the whole present exportation of all America to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and that it is within the limits of possibility that this enormous competition with our western grain fields may be pushed eastward down to a great navigable stream to a port on salt water which, though situated in the 53rd degree of west longitude, is eighty miles nearer Liverpool than New York is. These are things, we repeat, to set men thinking. The great centres of agriculture, population and trade have been moved about too frequently, and far too far on this continent within the present century or could it safe for any man to predict where they may be found twenty years or ten years hence. All that we can be quite sure of is that the price of prosperity as well as of liberty is an eternal vigilance. Neither New York, nor Chicago, nor St. Louis, nor the United States themselves need expect to hold any good thing now in their grasp by any other tenure or upon any other condition.—[N. Y. World.

Mr. Richard Relf is building a fine residence 18x22 feet, two stories high with a kitchen and woodshed. He will remove his family to Mandan from Superior, Wis., as soon as the house is completed, which will be early next month.—Mandan Criterion.

A Literary Avalanche.

An enviable fame among people who love good books is being achieved by the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE, 55 Beekman street, New York. Simultaneously with the completion of the century comes the cheap and successful ACME edition of CHAMBERS'S CYCLOPEDIA OF ENGLISH LITERATURE, they announce the publication of six other standard and popular books, all choice editions, at prices heretofore undared of. A discount of 10 per cent from these prices is allowed to all whose orders are received before June 1, and an additional discount of 10 per cent when ordered in clubs of five or more of either book, or to the amount of $10.00 or more selected from the list, at one time. Circulars giving full descriptions, specimens of type, etc., will be sent free on request. Sold only to buyers direct, and not through dealers or agents.

BLACK HILLS LETTER.

WILLIAMS' RANCH, ON WHITEWOOD, D. T., Aug. 28th, 1879.

Dear old Tribune:

Who would not be a rancher? at any rate for a short period, say on these moonlight nights, after a good supper and a whiff or two out of any old clay pipe, smoking the tobacco raised on your own place, and to partake of "a few" watermelons and cantelopes which have been nicely cooled in the spring. Now that is jolly and how one does enjoy it.

Our farmers have done harvesting, and the huge stacks of grain surrounding their cabins makes many a heart feel glad, and the yield has been surprising. One man has just thrashed his wheat and oats—the wheat turns about forty bushels to the acre—and the oats weighed 90 bushels to the acre. He was not satisfied with the first count and then had it measured in the bin, as he did not believe that the yield could be so large. The measurement proved the first count correct, and even run a little over. Now talk about your Minnesota crops, will you. Of course our acres of course are limited, but quite sufficient for the demands of the country. Hay this season is light and will not turn out over one-half of last year's crop, and will no doubt bring a good price.

We have been wanting to tell you about the Sidney Stage Company and their protection against foot agents. In the first place they have a heavy ironclad coach, drawn by six fine horses. In this the treasure is deposited, under the care of four well armed men. The loopholes on each side are about large enough to throw out a half grown kitten. No passengers are taken on this trip, and the coach looks exactly like the others on the line. Then there are four outriders also well mounted and armed—two ride on the outside of the coach and two ride ahead on ponies, relieving each other at proper distances. These eight men accompany the coach clear through from Deadwood to Sidney. No one knows when to expect it, when or at what time it may arrive. The intimation as folks at Crook City know of its arrival is some morning about daybreak we hear the heavy tramp of two men, and presently hear the thundering at the post-office door and calling the postmaster for the mail. We generally find one to be Bonne May. Both carry heavy double-barreled shot-guns, with a whole arsenal of ammunition strung around the waist, pistols and one by two forty-six revolvers. Both men have cool determination in every action, and are in every way fitted for their arduous duties. Bonne May has got away with his man, and carries the marks of two or three fights with road agents. Last summer he followed a gang of these desperadoes for over two months—all alone—and actually succeeded in bringing in two of them, and having one wounded. I never tell any tales or stop any more coaches. The bullion carried out by this coach generally runs from $200,000 to $300,000, and even still higher.

We regret to say that the route via Bismarck is not doing near the trade that the Sidney route is. The stage via Sidney is loaded down every day, while the Bismarck route has but few passengers. Their freight trains come in regularly, but the bulk of the freight coming to the Hills is via Sidney and Pierre. One reason for this is told quite readily. A merchant here can buy his goods in St. Paul, ship them to Chicago and thence to the Hills, via Sidney or Pierre, for 25c. per cwt. lower than by the Bismarck. This fact should be made known, as it is an injury to your folks; but it is hard to apply any remedy as the Bismarck folks own nearly the whole road.

We have had a dry summer, but crops are good; even corn is turning out well, much to our surprise, as last year the worms destroyed the greater portion of the crop.

Large droves of cattle are coming to the Hills, and nearly all the ranchmen have their eyes open while hogs are becoming quite plenty, and pork promises to be an article of export, instead of importing it as we have been.

We are getting a grist mill up in Crook, with two run of stone, and it will no doubt be quite remunerative to those interested in the venture.

Everything here looks very promising for the future, and those who have settled here and attended to business are all in a fair way of doing well, but the trouble has been that we have had too many shallaways, and your own State of Minnesota has furnished a good portion of them, but they have left and left a great portion of them, as they find the Hills is not the place for loafers.

Yours truly, AQUATIC.

An Encyclopedia of Universal Knowledge, in 20 volumes, 18,000 pages, all for $10, and equal in all important respects to any Cyclopedia heretofore sold for less than $100, is announced for publication by the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE, 55 Beekman street, New York. Their catalogue of several hundred standard publications, at very low prices, will be sent free on request.

The Latest Invention in Useful Household Articles.

Within the last few years there has been expended a great deal of inventive thought and genius upon what may be classed as household articles, the most noted of which are the production of the sewing machine, the wringer, the washing machine, the carpet sweeper, &c. Almost every week we chronicle the advent, of some new invention by which the cares and labors of housekeeping are lessened, and woman's work made easier.

The newest thing to challenge our attention and gladden the heart of the housekeeper, is what is called the NOVELTY BRUSH HOLDER, CARPET STRETCHER and SWEEPER, a very simple contrivance designed to firmly hold in position any kind of a brush or duster; having an extension hand-a that enables one to wash or dust windows, walls or ceilings without the aid of a step ladder. That is one of the conveniences, and it is also one of the best carpet sweepers in the market, holding the brush firmly at an angle. It cleans the carpet thoroughly, raises no dust, and does not wear the carpet as do the ordinary broom or brush, and will outwear a half dozen brooms. As a handle for the scrubbing brush it is the best device ever made; no more kneeling on the floor, no more back aches or sore fingers.

As a carpet stretcher alone it is worth its cost, as a carpet of any size can be laid evenly without any of the labor and vexation usually attending such work. It is strong, simple, thoroughly made, cannot get out of order, has no screws, wire or hinges, is compact, cheap and durable.

NEWS SUMMARY

CRIMES AND CRIMINALS

The death by poisoning of the brother of the Emperor of Morocco is announced.

At Erie, Pa., September 1, Charles Burnham, an attorney, shot himself. Cause, domestic unhappiness.

An incendiary fire in Minneapolis on the early morning of August 30, destroyed an old shingle mill. Loss $800.

Two murderers were hung at Fort Smith, Ark., August 29. They were resigned, very happy and sure of going straight to heaven.

John H. Catling, brother of the inventor, who found murdered near his homestead at Murfreesboro, North Carolina, Sept. 31. Wm. Vann, a neighbor, was arrested.

Riotous disturbances occurred at Fall River, Mass., Sunday morning, August 24, between parties of working spinners and strikers. In some cases several pistol shots were exchanged, stones thrown and considerable disorder manifested, without, however, any serious results.

CASUALTIES.

The cholera continues virulent in Yokohama, Japan.

At Watsontown, Pa., the woolen mill and hat factory of Getty & Bro., were totally destroyed by fire. Loss $150,000, partially insured.

A renewal of floods is reported from various parts of England and Wales. The reports of the harvest are badly rained deplorable at several places. There have been thirty hours of steady rain.

At Elizabeth, New Jersey, Sept. 30, a party named Charles Gerdes died from mistaking them for mushrooms. Two children are dead, and two more were dying; the parents will recover.

A Switzerland, Geneva, correspondent reports that a carriage containing a party of American tourists driving from Martizny to Chamonix, was overturned and a lady named Mrs. Wright of New York fell into a gorge and was killed.

A Watertown, N. Y., telegram of September 1, says towns on the Black river and tributaries are suffering greatly from the want of water. Since January the rain fall here has been eight and three-fourths inches less than the same time in 1878.

SECOND ANNUAL REUNION OF THE VETERANS ASSOCIATION.

A Good Attendance and Grand Good Time—The Old Battle Flags Once More Unfurled—Speech of the Governor—Resolutions and Banquet at the Academy—Speeches, Poems and Music.

From the Saint Paul Daily Globe, Sept 4.

The third annual reunion of the veterans association of Minnesota convened in the senate chamber of the capitol building, at 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon. The number of veterans in attendance was large, and the roster of members present and battles represented and honored as the occasion demanded.

The battle flags which floated over the regiments and companies of Minnesota boys who fought for the Union during the late war, were displayed in the hall of the house of representatives, and the incessant flow of conversation was appropriately interrupted by a national salute of thirty-eight guns, which were fired from the ordnance located on the capitol grounds. The proclamations were hung out shortly before 10 o'clock, when each member was presented a blue badge bearing the inscription of the association.

The music was furnished by the Great Western band, the members of which occupied a number of important seats from the gallery, the pleasing effect of which materially added to enliven the occasion. The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock by Gen. J. W. Bishop, who said that the paramount object of the association was to cultivate friendly relations and for a renewal of those honored associations between comrades in arms.

It was moved to dispense with the roll-call as the list embraced fully 600 names, but on a discussion was manifested to have such a move, and the motion was reconsidered, and Secretary Richards proceeded to call the roll of names.

The association then proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, and on motion of Col. Taylor the same officers were re-elected by a viva voce vote and the election was declared unanimous.

COLOR BEARERS.

The election of color bearers was then taken up with the following result:

First regiment—Chas. Valentine and Wm. Johnson.

Third regiment—B. Otis and S. Pannell.

Fourth regiment—G. W. Anderson and T. Young.

Fifth regiment—Messrs. Kase and Schmidt.

EXECUTIVE AND REMARKS.

After the above business had been dispatched, Gen. Johnson arose and alluded, in elegant terms, to the lamented George H. Thomas, advocating that a subscription be taken up for the purpose of having so appropriate a memorial erected to him in the Senate chamber.

The speaker also adverted to the notable lack of decorations, and made some very amusing remarks about the resolutions to be enjoyed at the Athenæum, in the course of which he alluded to a colored cook in his regiment, whom he characterized as no cook at all, with feet large enough to step the most liberal Republican platform. In closing his remarks, the speaker said that all present had realized the days of enlistment had passed, but the days of military worship were over, and they assembled to enjoy the treat that had been reserved.

Gen. Bishop followed with a brief eulogy on the character of Gen. Thomas, and a resolution was offered as follows: Moved by R. W. Johnson, Col. C. S. Ulme, and Gen. Marshall to take preliminary measures to procure a suitable picture. The motion then carried in line preparatory to the parade to the Athenæum. The column form d on Exchange street, opposite the capitol, Gen. Bishop commanding, and headed by the Great Western band, the line of march was taken up for the Athenæum.

THE PROCESSION—THE DINNER.

The procession marched down Wabasha street to Third, thence west to Fort street, southwest on the latter thoroughfare to Walnut, east on Walnut to Exchange street and from there to the Athenæum. Upon arriving at the latter place the members were escorted to the dining hall, where a magnificent dinner had been spread by the ladies of St. Paul, the committee on banquet consisting of the following well known ladies: Mrs. Capt. Mainzer, Mrs. Albert Scheffer, Mrs. Col. Ulms, Mrs. Rev. Davis, Mrs. Rasmus and Mrs. Pfaender. The dining rooms were about consisted of three long tables, profusely adorned with flowers, and laden with the most extensive variety of substantials and delicacies that nature's liberal storehouse is capable of furnishing, and it is safe to say that the hundred veterans who sat down to the feast never made an assault or vanquished a foe with greater satisfaction than that manifested on yesterday.

The dinner was served by a score of ladies whose captivating manners did much credit to themselves as the wives, sisters and sweethearts of the manly heroes to whom they paid such graceful and dignified obeisance. The post prandial hour was taken up with informal conversation, and the veterans gratefully disposed to reasonable ad 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

Evening Meeting.

The members of the association reassembled at 7:30 o'clock, last evening, and the unusually handsome manner in which the auditorium, or main hall of the Athenæum, was decorated, is worthy of more than passing mention. The stage was occupied by of a formidable number of rifles, consisting of a full nine canvas tent and three stacks of muskets, the arms being arranged in such a manner as to make a very striking effect, while the beauty of the picture was enhanced by a wooded scene in the background, and the stage flats, which were painted in deep emerald, making the ensemble exceedingly real tic. The gallery rail was artistically festooned with evergreens of bright scarlet, relieved by occasional sprigs of white and evergreens, the pictures being beautified in a similar manner, while a number of flags overhung the gallery and interesting most of which bore the appearance of having floated over many a desperate and fiercely contested engagement. In the center of the speaker's stand was adorned by the ensign of liberty, the great American eagle, whose spirited neck and outstretched pinions were as great an incentive to the patriotic ardor as the flags which had been dashed by the most sophisticated orator.

BANQUET.

The exercises of the evening were preceded by a grand supper, of which all present were extended a cordial invitation to partake, and the invitation was generally reciprocated. While a number of the guests were then regaling themselves, the audience were edified by a number of choice musical selections by the Great Western band, under the leadership of Prof. Emil Winter.

then stepped forward and said that as veterans they had met to commemorate the events in which they had all participated, and that he took great pleasure in introducing one of Minnesota's most distinguished veterans, ex-Gov. and Gen. Marshall.

was then introduced and spoke briefly as follows:

Veterans, comrades, ladies—The agreeable duty of welcoming the veterans of Minnesota to the third annual reunion has devolved upon myself. In behalf of the comrades, and the ladies whose deft hands and deep sympathy so much contributed to the success of the banquet, I trust that under the auspices of next year's re-union that the same hospitality will be extended to us by the ladies of St. Paul.

Col. Cross then introduced Gov. Rosser, and the latter in turn Governor and ex-Governor Marshall, who briefly electrified the audience.

GOV. ROSSER

said that while he was not secretary of war, Col. Cross—You will be. Laughter.) he took pleasure in extending a welcome to the veterans assembled in the hall of the state capitol, and in the name of the people of Minnesota. He was pleased to see that the population of Minnesota was meagre, but statistics would prove that the state was filled in by four others of consequence. Minnesota was represented by many States in the union than the eleven by those who went from this State to maintain the honor of their country.

A POEM.

Mr. F. M. Finch then recited a beautiful and appropriate poem, called "thirty-seven," composed by Gen. James G. Hough, and founded on an incident connected with the war.

GEN. MCCONNON

was then introduced by Col. Crooks in a neat speech, commencing his remarks by saying that the veterans had fought for the preservation of the old and tattered flags he never wanted to see those colors abandoned. Continuing, that the war we had had a civilization that the world had admired, but in reality there had been decided by the late civil war. Minnesota had sent a glowing tribute of song from the rebellion was eloquently alluded to by the speaker, and a glowing tribute was paid to the gallant manner in which they had sustained the government in her hour of trouble. They had assisted everything in the interests of human liberty and the institutions of the country, and the speaker alluded to the greatest statesman of England had recently said that the United States was the cheapest, strongest and richest government of the world. He had also said that in all Europe that the republic was weak for the reason that they kept no standing army. If a veteran army was to lie in the recreation. They had shown that when called to defend the interests of the country they were ready to respond with persistent and patriotic army in the world. The virtues and blessings of peace were alluded to and the speaker closed with an eloquent tribute to the memory of the martyred republican institutions as demonstrated by the unequalled valor of the citizen soldiership in the late rebellion, which had been the greatest and most enduring government under the canopy of heaven. (Applause.)

CHRISTOPHER ANDREWS.

After a selection by the band, Gen. Andrews, another of various kinds of services, was called upon for a speech; in response to which he said that it was very gratifying to know that the people of the north had such a genius with their presence. The speaker alluded to the revolutionary conflict, and to the memorable occasion when the veterans had turned out to dedicate the Bunker Hill monument.

The presence of so many veterans was feelingly referred to, and the speaker explained that in coming years the attendance would number into the thousands. All express and deprecated the fact that the friendly relations with the South. The Southern States should and must be a unity, peace, happiness and tranquility, and all that contributed to the highest possible civilization reflected the greatest credit upon the war zone of the South.

Gen. Andrews, in his remarks, made a study of the South, and they should use their influence to promote whatever would most conduce to bring about the desired union and united country, prosperous from one end to the other.

was called upon for a song, to which he responded in a very pleasing manner, the song which was rendered in a very artistic and pleasing manner.

COL. COVILLE

was invited to take a seat on the platform by Capt. Arnold as "the man filled with lead," and the perforated veteran took his seat amidst the cheers of the assembly.

was then introduced as a member of the examination and a gallant soldier from Ohio. The speaker commenced his remarks by making an amusing allusion to the supposition penalty that attaches to the soldier who is found asleep on his post when called to the front, in what capacity or duty soever. The speaker alluded to the sentiment of not being wrought out by the valor of those who had preceded them, and closed with a few appropriate flats.

An eloquent tribute was paid to the memories of those who had sacrificed their lives in the defense of the government. The speaker closed by a feeling allusion to the sentiment to commemorate the lives and heroic deeds of the noble dead, and that the last and saddest full efforts to maintain the honor in the mouth. Soon no doubt, it is the hope that it will be the last.

MINNESOTA'S EXHIBIT.

BOOMING DAY FOR THE STATE FAIR YESTERDAY.

The Attendance Runs Up to Over Six Thousand—The Fish, the Horses and the Vegetables—A Fine Display by the St. Paul & Sioux City Road—The Many Noble Mercantile Exhibits—Music, Fireworks, Balloon Ascensions and Ex-Racer—Balloon Ascension To-Day.

Yesterday's attendance at the State fair grounds was a large one, the factory, in point of fact, seemed the proportions of a very considerable boom. The 9 o'clock train was downed—and it was a train of passengers, every solly nine tenths, stopped over at the grounds. I urge numbers also came in in carriages, and the streets were literally blocked with them between five and six thousand people present. This number, if anywhere near a correct estimate, is very largely increased during the afternoon, so that by 3 or 4 o'clock it will be readily seen that the boom had assumed very respectable proportions.

STATE FISHERY.

S. S. Watkins, superintendent of the State Fish hatchery, exhibits a trophy fine specimens of trout, of various kinds, which have had been hatched out and reared at Willow brook, just below St. Paul. These were two years old, and the finest. Callous lake trout and lake trout, tasks of pearling salmon, brook trout and salmon trout, which are a few years the trout and salmon; tanks of two-and-a-half pounds each, and all in good health, fine bass and perch. A globe of trout fry are also shown, which Mr. Watkins claims are as fine or finer than he ever raised. This exhibit of the exhibit is most creditable to the gentleman named and to his skill and industry, and demonstrate beyond question the fact that the State legislature was building wiser than they knew or imagined when it made the appropriation which inaugurated the establishment of a fish hatchery.

THE SOUTH KENSEY.

The exhibit of butter is both large, varied and excellent and demonstrates, if any one doubted it, the fact that Minnesota is indeed a butter producing S ate as yields are now made under the present conditions. produce as good an article in this line as New York or any State in the East. A more extensive display of this preparation will be both sharp and exciting, as it is difficult to imagine how a more particular display is to be made than all are so good. The result of the display is highly creditable to the company in stimulating the production of the very best article that can be made, and in this respect the State will be benefited to a very great extent thereby. In this department of the exhibit is a display of various kinds of seeds, which are raised on the farms of the company, and demonstrate beyond question the fact that the State legislature was building wiser than they knew or imagined when it made the appropriation which inaugurated the establishment of a fish hatchery.

FASHION NOTES.

A great many black silk suits are being made, as these are staple articles, and remain in favor, no matter what novelties are introduced later. Three or four different fabrics enter into each of these costumes.

Double collars, consisting of an upright band of linen, with turned-down points, and of a large, flat collarette, both trimmed with Turkey-red, worked with white floss, are announced as among the coming tightnesses of neckwear.

Notwithstanding the furor about pauiers and bouffante costumes, the clinging style of dress is still most in favor. The paniers, we are used, are so arranged as to give the flat effect, as they are only becoming to slender figures when bouffante.

Lawn carpets for garden parties are made from Madras handkerchiefs, plain or striped, and are staple articles, and are used in the center, four of similar pattern are sewed to its sides, and the corners are filled in by four others of contrasting colors.

For carriage use there are satin parasols, usually either white or black, plain or with embroidered borders. For more expensive parasols the canopy shape, of size almost as large as a sun umbrella, is preferred to any. Japanese shape introduced this season.

Lace will no longer be used for trimming wrappings which are worn on foot in the daytime, but will be reserved for mantelets worn beneath the long carriage mantles, which are left in the auto-chest her before entering the drawing-room when making a call.

As a rule bridesmaids purchase dresses that accord tolerably well with those of the bride, but in this instance a freak of fancy may now and then have birth, and for a while may prevail, in one or other articles of the bridal wardrobe, or a new trimming may have a run for a certain length of time; but comfort and suitability are the main considerations in all devisings for infants.

It is said that the fashion of wearing basques of a material different from that of the skirt is to be generally adopted this winter, in which case the revenge of dressmakers will be materially decreased. In the mean time, will somebody persuade the man who wear polka-dots of diaphanous material over dark skirts to have the want-linings of the same color as the skirts?

The new silks to be worn during the early autumn and winter are brocaded stripes of two or three contrasting colors, and also small figures in the same style as the stripes. Many of the armure silks are partly velvet, while others are plush, the figure being long raised pile on a silk or satin ground of the same color. This is especially handsome in black, prune, gray and azalet blue shades.

For girls' dress hats the round French peasant cap is the most fashionable; for male infants there is no departure from the usual shapes. The most beautiful little caps are of soft muit muslin, with a head-piece in which very delicate cords are stitched, or a flexible wire is tucked into the edge to a round crown that is sometimes enriched by a French medallion, needle wrought or applied. The border is a double or triple-fluted frill of muslin.

While stylish summer dresses are made up of contrasting colors, it is a rule of the present day that the colors of the corset respond in hue. Thus the parasol, fan, sash and flowers are chosen all of the same prevailing color as the corset to that of the dress trimming. When these are paniers brocaded in two colors, instead of a sash, both of these appear in the article just mentioned. The simplest gingham dress has its Japanese fan of the gay hues of the plaid, and the inlaid-tinted stockings are flecked or striped in similar tints.

Wide belts of woven canvas fastened with leat-er buckles are the novelty for country fashionables. They are four and a half inc es wide, are made of white canvas and are fastened by three small buttons on the outside. Some of these belts are only two inches broad. To the left side is attached a square white canvas bag, and the belt is worn by those in light blue, blac or green dresses. The belts cost from 65 cents to $1.00 and the bag is $1. There are also brown canvas belts to be worn with buckles, pale blue striped with white, solid blue, plain gray, and black canvas sets.

An Amended Proposition.

From the Pomeroy (Ohio) Sentinel.

It is certainly a fact, that city of whiskey, wealth and wic edness. A case was on trial in the justice's court and during a recess one of the interested parties approached a juror and said:

"Say, boss, if that ar suit goes agin me I'm nigh on $2,000 loser in mussey property, and if it goes yon as it ever goes I'm bound to hang that jury."

The incorruptible action of American liberty rolled on, and the jury retired.

"It'd be a cussed onsartin job for a man to take a rope and undertake to hang all gang an' 'a' would allers 'low I'd go through without a jig under it myself; but if it'all the same to you 'gard, I mout wade in thar with a six-shooter an' wipe out the whole crowd." That's the way he hand than kingly" and the job could be done quicker. If that's satisfactory produce the cash and I'll get to work."

A Mystery.

Two darkies had bought a piece of pork, and Sam, having no place to put his in, cautiously asked Dave to allow hooping. Next morning they met, when Julius said:

"Sam, I's most strange thing happened at my house last night, Sam. All mystery to me."

"Ah, Julius what was dat?"

"Well, Sam, this mornin' I went down into the cellar to get a piece of pork for breakfast, and I put my hand down into the brine, and felt all round, but no pork dere—all gone—couldn't tell what he went with it; so I turned up de barrel, and, Sam, sure as preachin', de rats eat a hole clear fru de bottom ob de barrel, and dragged de pork all out."

"Why didn't de brine run out ob de hole?"

"Ah, Sam, dat is de mystery."

Gilman for lieutenant governor, was composed of C. M. Barton, D. B. Stiles, J. Y. Brower, and J. H. Raymond. After an animated discussion of over an hour, the delegation, headed by Wall was admitted by a vote of 112 to 99.

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR.

Loren Fletcher moved the convention proceed to an informal ballot for a candidate for Governor. C. rried.

Mr. J. B. Gilfillan presented a name—not a new one—the present incumbent, Gov. A. R. Pillsbury, (still applause). In doing this he was hoary in the declaration of the fact that it was not necessary to tell who the nominee of the people was—A. R. Pillsbury. He had no word of disparagement of the other gentlemen who would be named, but he was proud to think not one would be named who he named against John S. Pillsbury's nomination. He had presented a faithful consideration of the people's interests. Mr. Gilfillan then presented the name of Gov. John S. Pillsbury in behalf of the Hennepin delegation, and asked for the nomination the favorable consideration of the convention.

Mr. Barron nominated Gen. E. Sole, and supplemented by saying it would be well to history to the whole State.

Mr. Cash, of Dakota, nominated Billson. He knew him (Billson) to be worthy of the office. His acquaintance with the wants of the people were thorough. He was comp tent, a leading member of the bar, a true man and a honorable gentleman. He urged his name in the full confidence of the fact that he'd do credit to the office.

Mr. S. P. Childs said he was directed by the Republican of Faribault county to present the name of Hon. J. B. Wakefield. He was also instructed to say if Mr. Wakefield's name should his office would not be considered to carry out the schemes of any clique or ring, but to represent the best interests of the State and with credit to the good name of the Republican party. While Mr. Wakefield came from a rural district, he challenged any person to show a record more in accord with the best interests of the people than Hon. J. B Wakefield.

S. P. Jennison, of Red Wing, stated that he has a great pleasure and acted in accord with two counties in naming Gen. Hubbard for nomination as governor. He had no need of telling the best people of the State who Gen. Hubbard was. The others had said the same, but sent us on to test their equilibrium were. He'd say no much that no slander could attach to him. He fair to the interests of the people than Hon. J. B Wakefield.

Mr. Barron nominated John S. Pillsbury in a complimentary speech. He said he had no story to tell the whole State

The fall term of our public schools opened on Monday last with Prof. C. W. Blake as principal; Mrs. C. W. Blake as intermediate and Miss Ella Smith as primary teachers, making, we believe, the ablest corps in any of the public schools in the State. Our schools are indeed an honor to the town.

Mrs. Ed. White returned on Tuesday last from a visit with friends in Peoria, Ills. She reports gardens and vegetation generally all killed by the late frosts in that section. It's strange the event did not inspire an article in the Chicago Times upon the frozen climate of Minnesota, a State that scarcely knows frost the year around.

An effort is being made to have all stove pipes through roofs in the business block between Fifth and Sixth streets removed and replaced with chimneys. We hope the effort will prove successful for the reasons that that block is becoming quite dense, several new buildings going up on the few vacant lots, and every precaution should be taken against fire. Mr. L. P. White has arranged, we learn, to have chimneys in all buildings owned by him, and we expect to see the excellent example closely followed up.

Our townsman S. J. Wallace, was so fortunate this week as to receive the appointment of superintendent of bridges on the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba railway, with headquarters at Minneapolis, and takes his departure on Tuesday to enter upon his new duties. We congratulate Mr. Wallace upon receiving this important appointment, though it is with regret that we part with so valued a citizen and neighbor, and we congratulate the railroad company which has thus secured the valuable services of a first class bridge builder.

Very many complaints are made of late against breachy cattle which ransack the city during the night time, tearing down fences, ravaging gardens, destroying shade trees and doing all sorts of damage. One old cow with a bone bell entertains particular antipathy towards our garden, fences, etc., and has destroyed ten or fifteen dollars worth of property, besides literally tearing our yard with filth. Make the fence as strong as we may she will tear it down every night, and we give notice that we propose to take out our damages in beef ere long if she is not taken care of.

A most frightful accident occurred at Jones Bros' saw mill on Tuesday morning last at about 10 o'clock, by which a man named Brooks lost his life in a most horrible manner. He was engaged about the shingle mill and in the act of putting a belt on a pulley when his clothing caught on the shaft in some way throwing him between the shaft and a post, mangling his body in a most horrible manner. Medical aid was promptly called, but the poor man only gasped a few times and was dead before the doctor reached him. Brooks was an elderly man and man of a family, leaving a wife and two children residing in Minneapolis, where his remains were taken for burial on Wednesday by Mr. A. M. Jones.

A narrow escape from a conflagration which might have resulted fatally occurred at the residence of Mr. Henry Dressen, on Laurel street, on yesterday morning. Mr. Dressen was absent on a trip to Fargo and the Dakota prairies and Mrs. Dressen had stepped out to a neighbor's leaving her two children—a little girl seven years old and a little boy less than a year old in charge of the former girl—a dwarf about sixteen years of age, in whom Mr. and Mrs. Dressen have frequently observed some very erratic tendencies though nothing to arouse their fears of anything as diabolical, as the affair of yesterday morning. Returning to the house soon after her departure Mrs. Dressen found the front door locked, and going to the rear door found it closed. On opening it and entering the kitchen she found that, as she did the whole house, full of smoke. She hastily sought the cause, and soon discovered the smoke proceeding from beneath the bureau in the front room. Investigation disclosed a bundle of cloths under the bureau with burning coals from the stove rolled up in them—and just ready to burst into flame. Suspicion rested at once upon the dwarf whom she found with the children shut up in the bedroom where they would probably have burned alive had Mrs. Dressen not returned as she did. She promptly acknowledged the deed saying as Mr. Dressen was away and she (Mrs. D.) was out, she thought it a good opportunity to burn the house. Mrs. Dressen ordered her to pack up her things and leave the house instanter, which she did, begging that she be not exposed; as she said it was the first time she had ever attempted anything of the kind.

Ordination and Installation.

An ecclesiastical council will meet at the First Congregational Church in this place on Wednesday, September 10th, at 3 o'clock p. m., to review the action of said church in calling Rev. R. A. Beard to be its pastor.

Upon the approval of the action of said church, the council will proceed to publicly examine the candidate as to his religious experience, motives in entering the ministry, and also as to his doctrinal views.

If the examination prove satisfactory, said council will proceed to ordain and install said candidate. These services, beginning at 7 p. m. of same day, will be as follows, viz:

1. Reading of minutes by scribe.
2. Music by choir and congregation.
3. Introductory prayer by Rev. J. L. Cory.
4. Reading the Scriptures by Rev. J. L. Cory.
5. Anthem by choir—"O, praise the mighty God."
6. Sermon by Rev. Geo. S. Pelton.
7. Installing prayer, with "laying on of hands," by Rev. D.W. Rosencrans.

10. Address to the people, by Rev. E. S. Williams.
11. Anthem by choir—"How beautiful upon the mountains."
12. Concluding prayer by R. M. Newport.
13. Benediction, by the Pastor.

It is expected that the examination of the candidate in the afternoon will be thorough and rigid. Let us go and see if our prospective pastor is a teacher worthy to be trusted as such.

The services, both afternoon and evening, promise to be of special interest. All are invited.
